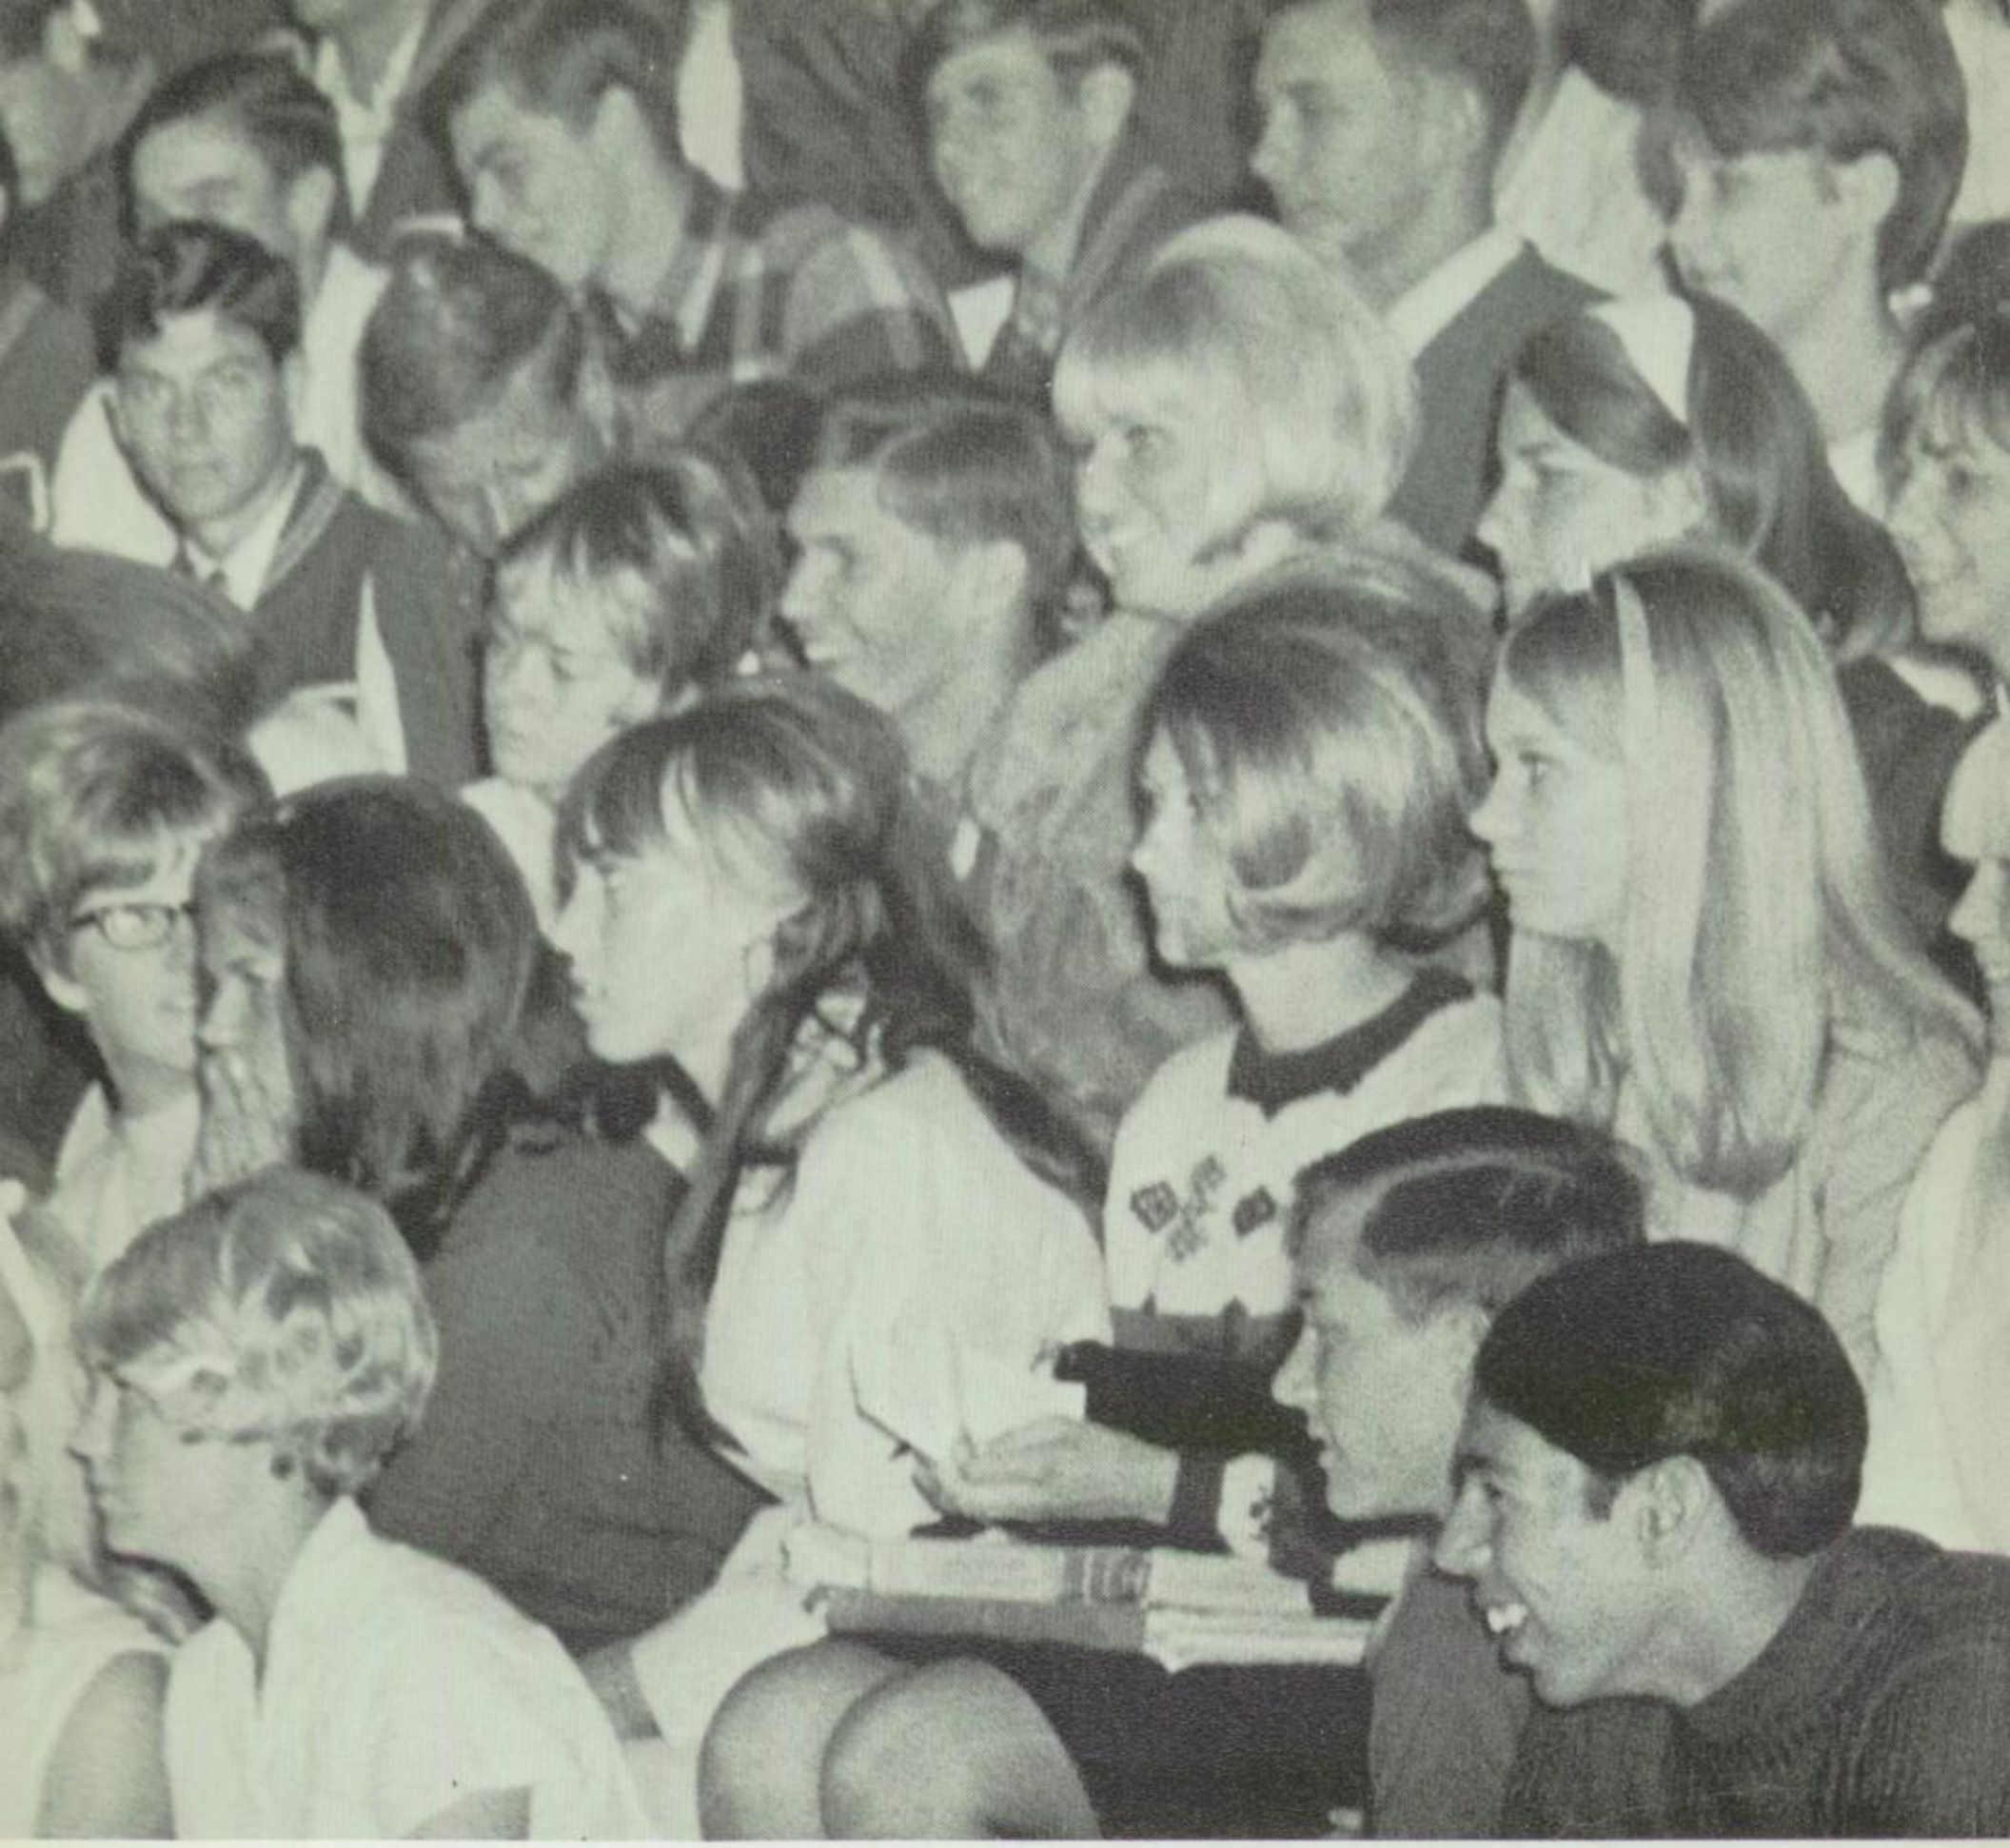
San Diego, California



Foreword

Whether it be in academics, sports, or social privileges, Crawford High School has consistently been rated among the highest. The numerous awards bestowed upon individual seniors, the successes of the Debate Team and Choral groups, the science fair winners, the lengthy array of C.I.F. banners and athletic trophies, and the well-attended activities are all part of the typical Crawford year.

In the vast complexity of student life at Crawford, there is an opportunity for every student to take an active part in supporting one or more of the many activities. To represent all aspects of Crawford life, the theme FACES has been chosen for the 1967 CENTAUR. Extensive coverage has been given to as many events as possible to show the hundreds of faces of the students at Will C. Crawford High School.

MRS. AGNEW

Dedication

When Mrs. Lois Agnew retires this year, she will be ending a long and successful career in education that began in Kentucky and has continued in the San Diego City Schools system since 1939.

Before coming to Crawford in 1962, Mrs. Agnew taught home economics at Memorial Junior High School and Snyder Continuation High School, and then became Vice-Principal at Lincoln High School and at Gompers Junior High School. While serving as Girls' Vice-Principal at Crawford for the past five years, Mrs. Agnew has shown her dedication to the students of Crawford and to the education system. She has kept abreast of all campus activities by being the administrative advisor to the Girls' League, American Field Service, and the Junior Class. She was also chairman of the guidance program.

An active participant in community service, Mrs. Agnew is past president and chairman of the executive board of the President's Council composed of the executive officers of the women's business, professional, and service clubs in San Diego. The Altrusa International, of which she is past president, is a participating organization of the President's Council. In addition, Mrs. Agnew is a charter member of Alpha Delta Kappa, an honorary professional teachers' fraternity, organized to promote better education.

To someone who has fulfilled her duties as an administrator and has worked outside of the school to insure better methods of education, to someone who has kept the interests of Crawford foremost in her mind, to MRS. LOIS AGNEW, the 1967 CENTAUR is dedicated.

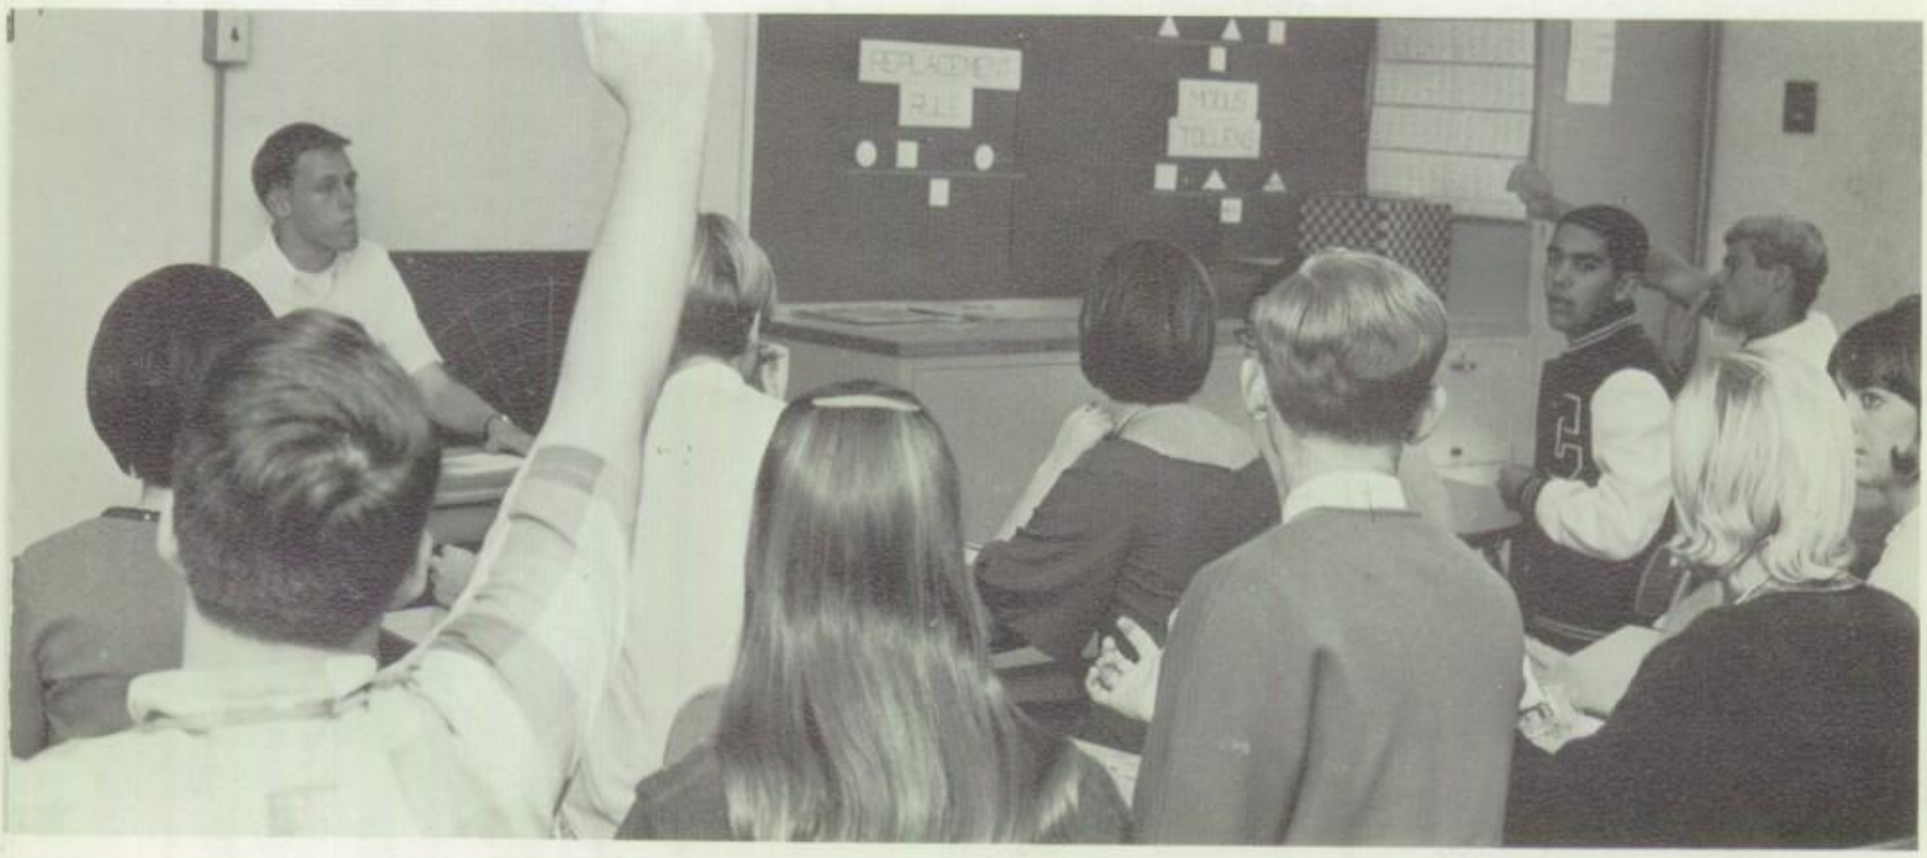
The leadership of the Associated Student Body Council formed the nucleus of school spirit and enthusiasm at Crawford. Hardworking and efficient, the commissioners were the driving force behind all student activities. The Council promoted new concepts which will benefit future Colt classes. The addition of girl cheerleaders, the proposal of a student court, and the introduction of A.S.B. cards with student pictures are only a few of the initiated programs. The A.S.B. officers sought to increase participation in such activities as Homecoming Week, rallies, the A.S.B. Ball and the Nominating Convention. The efforts of the Council members united the sea of student faces under a common bond as they worked toward a successful and enjoyable year.

TED CROOKS
A.S.B. President



The A.S.B. Council daily debated the campus problems and activities.

Much like our national representative body, the Crawford Senate created an important link between the administration, student body officers, and students which proved invaluable.

Class Presidents, Jett Keyser, Steve represented their grade levels in the

Participation in Student Government Strengthened

A.S.B.

Contributing to the efficiency and well-being of Crawford's student government, the ticket auditors and clerks were invaluable members of the A.S.B. Council. Class presidents also participated enthusiastically in the council, forming a tangible link between the A.S.B. and each grade level. An active Senate was fostered through the efforts of A.S.B. Vice-President Tim McClure. The body of spirited representatives sought to improve all conditions of campus life while providing communication between Crawford students and administrative leaders.

Merrie Klapp, Commissioner of Traditions and Grounds was responsible for Clean Campus and the historian's scrapbook.

Epstein, and Bruce Altshuler, energetically student council discussions and activities.

Ticket auditors, Joyce Sommerfeld, Charlotte Bourda, and Kathy Keeyes, helped Mrs. Johnston in the financial office selling tickets to athletic events, movies, and dances.

Faces of representatives from each school-affiliated club greeted each other often at regular sessions of the Inter-Club Council. With Commissioner of Student Affairs Donna Hashiguchi presiding, Crawford's I.C.C. coordinated and supervised many exciting club activities. Club representatives worked together to sponsor the Third Annual Colts' Capers, Crawford's display of all-school talent. The group actively participated in Clean Campus Week to insure its success. Through the efforts and encouragement of the efficient 1966-67 Inter-Club Council, thirteen organizations produced entries for the "Caravan of Floats."

The reliable faces of the Student Affairs Committee were responsible for coordinating many campus activities. Encouraged by efficient Commissioner Donna Hashiguchi, committee members worked hard to plan student events for the entire year. Besides insuring the success of traditional Homecoming activities, the energetic group initiated the First Annual Caravan of Floats. Under Donna's supervision, the committee spent many hours creating original decorations for the A.S.B. Ball, "Shangri-La." The success of other activities, including Club Week and Orientation Week, demonstrated the tireless dedication of this year's Student Affairs Committee.

Student leaders urged Colts to "Get with It!" and participate in school activities.

Trish was the all-important person who inspired and directed the pep rallies.

Varied and A.S.B. Activities

Rallies and Assemblies

The lively faces of the Rallies and Assemblies Committee sparked pep and spirit throughout the campus. Prompted by energetic Commissioner Trish Harris, the group inspired spontaneous excitement and loyalty through imaginative lunch-time rallies. Trish and her committee members dedicated many hours after school devising skits, banners and entertainment for the frequent Friday rallies. Informative and enjoyable assemblies were also the product of the group's planning. The Rallies and Assemblies Committee worked to unite the immense sea of Colt faces in common support of athletic events and school activities.

The Traditions and Grounds Committee was a dynamic group dedicated to school service. Merrie Klapp, Commissioner of Traditions and Grounds, surged ahead with new ideas to improve campus conditions. Merrie and her committee members actively engaged in an all-out campaign against litter. Revising the student handbook for new Crawfordites was another project initiated by Merrie and her committee. Jane Saare enthusiastically filled the vacancy created by Merrie's departure for Greece in March. Jane and her committee worked diligently to insure the success of Clean Campus Week.

Jane Saare inspired student enthusiasm during the Clean Campus Week this spring.

Publications

Commissioner Nancy Kaupp and the Publications Committee dedicated their services to informing Crawford students of all A.S.B. functions. Concentrating on all types of banners and posters, Nancy and her committee were responsible for adding pep to rallies and games. The group's publicity encouraged participation in student body activities such as the A.S.B. Ball. Nancy initiated a regular column in the Pacer to report on the progress of the A.S.B. Council. Creative and spirited, the committee succeeded in uniting all Crawfordites with an ample display of clever publicity.

Democratic ideals were perpetuated through the work of the A.S.B. Elections Committee. Headed by Steve Bieri, Commissioner of Elections, the group sought to facilitate campus voting procedures. The Committee was responsible for inspiring enthusiastic support for class elections, cheerleader and songleader elections, and A.S.B. balloting. Steve and his hardworking organization began to plan early for the 10th Annual Nominating Convention. Committee members spent hours decorating the gym and planning the agenda for the major event. The efficiency of the group insured a smooth-running convention and election of next year's Associated Student Council.

Girls' League and Sponsored Service,

Active participation by all co-eds was the goal of the Girls' League Cabinet and Council. Representatives from gym classes communicated the details of the organization's activities and projects to Crawford girls. Led by Alin Hanson, the Girls' League functioned as a dynamic social and service club. Hardworking chairmen were responsible for the success of Autumn Round-Up, April a la Mode, the Dad 'n Daughter Banquet and the Sophomore Tea. The club served the school and community with the Magazine Drive, the Christmas Mailbox and the Easter Basket Project.

Assisted by Advisors, Mrs. Sally Remington and Mrs. Lois DeLay, the cabinet planned events.

The Boys' Federation float was the first of many activities.

Officers: Geoff Smith, President, Mike Rust, Vice President, Sandy Komula, Secretary, and Gordon Darby, Treasurer.

Boys' Federation Social Functions

Boys' Federation provided representation for the male portion of the Student Body. Under the leadership of Geoff Smith, the group co-sponsored the successful dance, Autumn Round-Up. The club selected Athletes of the Month and presented many enjoyable assemblies. Representatives, elected from gym classes, also maintained effective communication between the A.S.B. Council and Crawford boys.

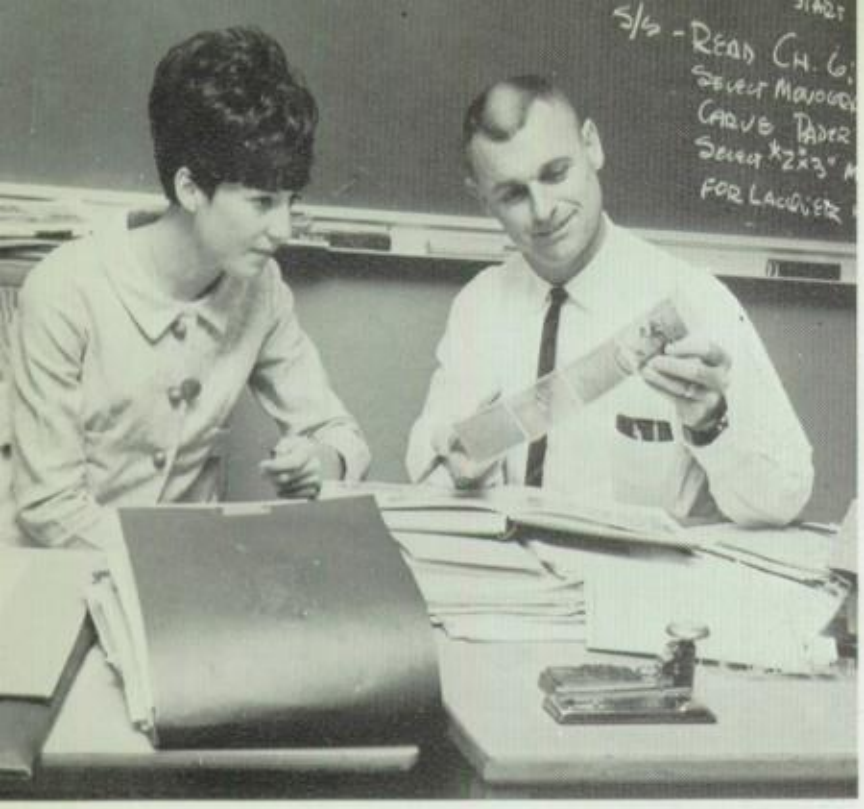
Centaur Staff Recorded Year's Campus Events



Karen Glenney, Editor-in-Chief, and Mr. Francis Linderman, Advisor, supervised all CENTAUR activity.

The 1967 CENTAUR was complete! Relieved faces of the annual staff waited anxiously for student approval of the yearbook. Long, hard hours of cropping pictures, designing layouts, and meeting pressing deadlines were spent in an attempt to produce a cherished record of the school year. Under the guidance of Editor-in-Chief Karen Glenney and Advisor Mr. Francis Linderman, the staff worked tirelessly to capture the many faces which are seen on the Crawford campus. Completely revising and reorganizing the CENTAUR, the group hoped to stimulate more student interest in the annual's contents. Striving for a prize-winning book, editors and assistants united in an effort to portray the many aspects of student life.

Write-ups Editors, Karen Creel and Charlotte Cysner, labored long hours to complete the Senior Annals.

Randy Lem and Russ Regan, Sports Editors, effectively highlighted year's athletic events.

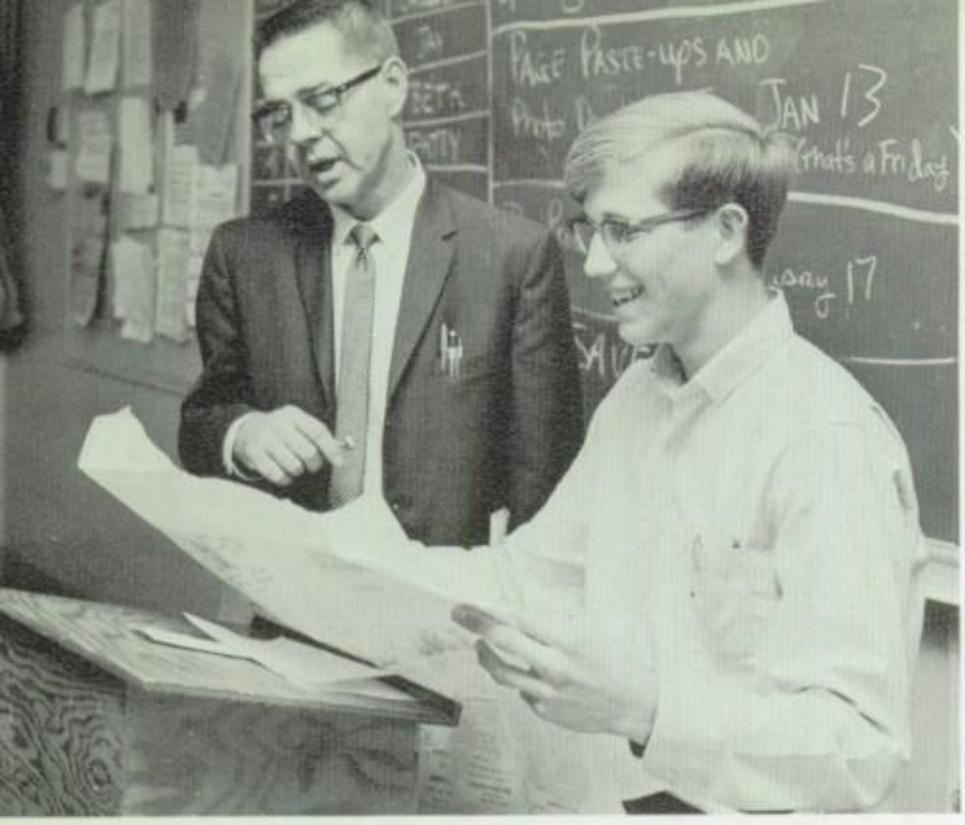
Pacer Captured Excitement of Colts in Action



Mr. Bill Rieker, Advisor, and Pat Edwards, Editor-in-Chief, evaluated a recent PACER staff product.

Creative journalists at Crawford kept students and faculty well-informed with the bi-monthly publication of the PACER. Editor-in-Chief Pat Edwards and Mr. Bill Rieker led the dedicated group as they worked furiously to compose and print the Colt newspaper. Photographers, editors, and assistants united in their efforts to present an accurate portrayal of student activities and problems. Crawfordites were enlightened by the thought-provoking editorials and factual news articles found in each edition of the PACER. Faces of the PACER staff reflected pride and satisfaction as their work was recognized for its high quality and excellent style.

Katy McGuire, Assistant, and Melva Brown, Managing Editor, discussed future plans.

The Contrasts played their version of western music.

The incoming Sophomores plunged into school activities with a fresh new spirit and enthusiasm. The faces of Sophomore girls were greeted by the friendly smiles of upperclassmen at the Sophomore Tea. The new Crawford co-eds toured the campus and listened to advice from experienced Colts. Sophomores displayed interest in vigorous leadership by electing Sophomore Class officers and Junior Varsity Cheerleaders. Tenth graders experienced the thrill of their first Homecoming as they participated in the Caravan of Floats. Expressing their pride in being part of Crawford, the Sophomores worked diligently on their float entry, "Happiness is Finally Becoming a Baby Colt." Although not taking a prize this year, the experience will help in the future.

modern style dancing was in vogue.

Those who didn't wish to dance had a sociable time at the bar, drinking rootbeer!

Tenth graders relived the era of cowboys and Indians at the Sophomore Class Party, "The Wild, Wild West." Spirited underclassmen entered the Crawford gym in their favorite Western attire to enjoy a night of rowdy fun and entertainment on April 14. The Sophomores listened intently to the songs of folksingers and watched oldtime movies. A "drink" at the saloon and dancing to the music of the "Contrasts" climaxed the eventful night.

The sheriff, Phil Kossy, made sure everyone stayed under wraps.

Juniors Led an Activity Filled Year

Juniors eagerly awaited the announcing of the 1966-67 committee chairman at the Junior Sun-Up Breakfast.

Juniors demonstrated their dynamic spirit by enthusiastically attending the First Annual Junior Class Breakfast, "Sun-Up." Held in the Crawford cafeteria before school, the event was highlighted by the announcement of 1966-67 committee chairmen. Eleventh graders also upheld spirit during Homecoming Week, sponsoring a float entitled "Happiness is a Special Date to the Junior Ball." The class party, "Ports of Call," was an event long anticipated by all class members. Embarking on a world cruise, juniors enjoyed international food and entertainment in the Crawford gym. The evening's fun was climaxed with dancing to the music of the Pagans.

What was happiness to the Junior Class? According to their homecoming float, "Happiness is A Special Date To The Junior Ball."

Grecian hostesses served refreshments in the dance room.

Surrounded by the splendor of ancient Greece, the Class of 1968 spent "An Evening in Athens" at the Junior Ball. Through the hard work of Chairmen Liz Williamson and Tish Scott, the underclassmen were enchanted by the elegance of Grecian gardens, fountains, and courts. Sophomore hostesses in long Grecian gowns added to the atmosphere of the May 12 event. Juniors and their dates enjoyed the glory of Greece with dancing to music provided by the Innocents.

The present junior class has waited two long years to become seniors. The magic moment arrived as graduating seniors turned the rings of the excited underclassmen after commencement exercises.

Couples danced around the beautiful Grecian court situated in the middle of the gym.

Crawfordites danced to the music of the Innocents.

Geoff Smith introduced the guests of honor, Mickey and Joe.

September brought the first week of school and a five day effort to orient the lost faces of the new sophomores. The student body and faculty greeted the incoming students warmly, urged them to participate in school activities and to "Get With It!". On Thursday, September 15, the sophomores attended an Orientation Assembly, where student and faculty leaders introduced the many phases of campus life.

The week's activities reached a climax with Autumn Round-Up, the annual fall mixer sponsored jointly by Boys' Federation and Girls' League. The bright faces of Crawford's Exchange Students, Meenakshi Kapoor and Josef Kaps, were formally introduced at this successful and fun event.

Colts met new faces at Autumn Round-Up.

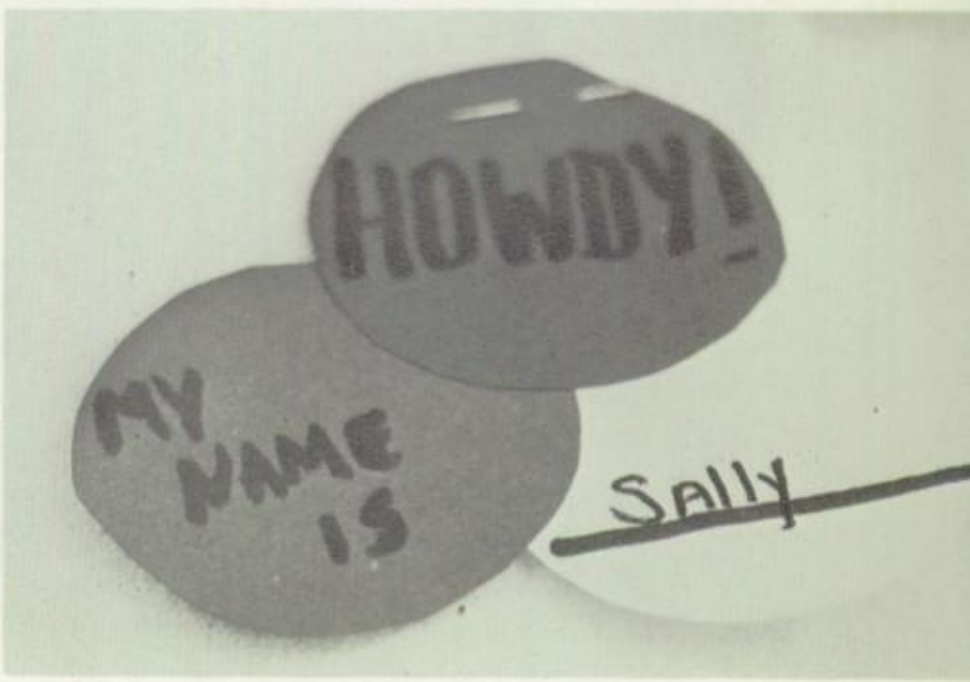
Friendly faces covered the campus as students said, "Howdy" during Orientation Week.



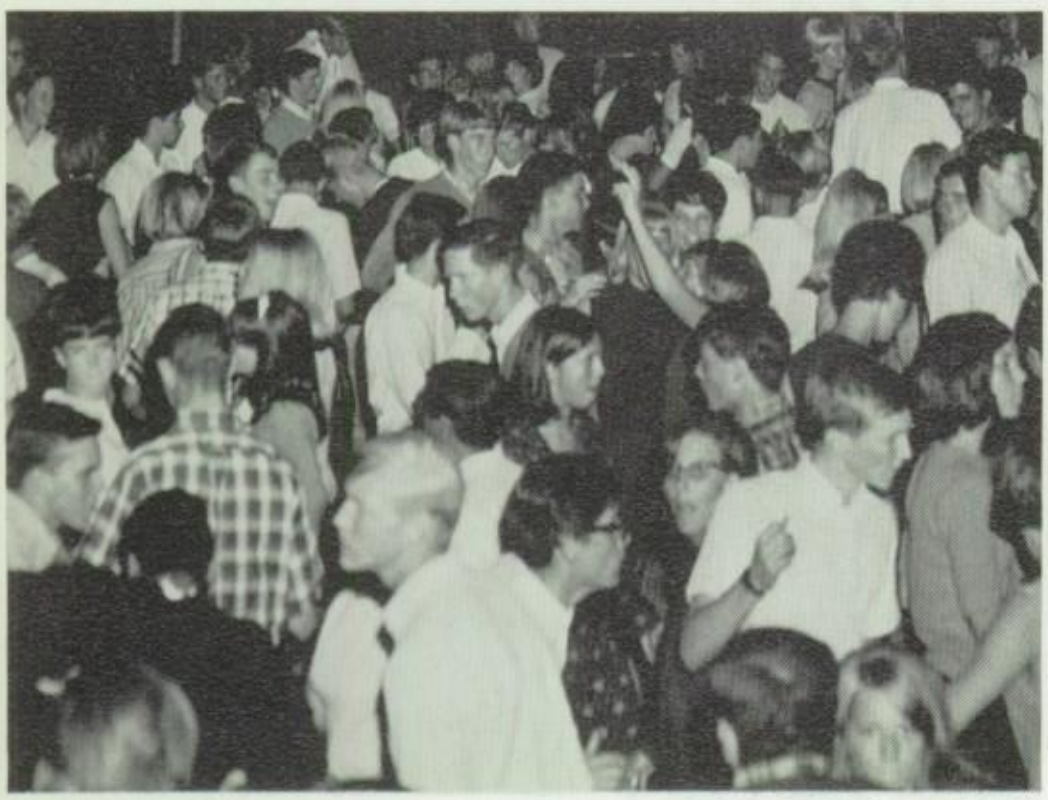
The vanquished Colt was dragged to Hell by prancing devils in the Sweetwater rally.

Sheet music and instruments littered the floor, while musicians recovered from another performance of the Pep Band.

Dances, Rallies, and Games Filled the Autumn Months

Crawford's mighty football team was introduced during a fall rally.

The faces of lively Colts mingled together across the campus as October brought many activities to Crawford. Students found lunch-time rallies a source of bubbling spirit and light entertainment. The imaginative skits and clever antics in the rallies produced smiles on the delighted faces of all Crawfordites. The Pep Band sparked the crowd and the team to greater spirit with their scintillating performances. With the encouragement of an enthusiastic mascot and cheering fans, the football team fought in earnest through victory and defeat. Faces began to grow familiar and friendly as students frequently gathered at the P.T.A. sponsored after-game dances.



The hilarity of packed-in dancers characterized Crawford's after-game dances.

The Colt entertained at games on the jump-rope.

The Pacerettes and the Colt Performed Proficiently

The Pacerettes executed their intricate and precise routines during halftime at football games.

Talented and exuberant, the faces of the Pacerettes Drill Team reflected school spirit and enthusiasm. The hardworking group produced peppy routines at the football games, rallies, parades, and assemblies. Making their debut at the Sophomore Tea in September, the faces of the Pacerettes continued to shine throughout the year. Colonel Jan Harder led the dedicated team as they united with the Marching Colts Band to present enjoyable half-time shows during the football season. Also participating in the North Park Toyland Parade, the impressive Pacerettes represented Crawford's student body well.

The height of pep was found in the dynamic enthusiasm of the Crawford Colt. Gordon Darby, front end, and Rick Morse, bringing up the rear, worked together to push along school spirit.

For hours of practice and marching, the immediate reward was sore feet.

Gordon Darby and Rick Morse were inside the agile Colt.

The Colt performed numerous tricks, one of which was riding the bicycle.

The Song and Cheerleaders At All Crawford Games

John and Steve led the Colts in a favorite cheer, "Bomp de Bomp Bomp."

Faces bubbling with a special kind of spirit, Colt song and cheerleaders inspired pep and enthusiasm at all games and lunch rallies. Their voices blended in unison as they proudly led cheers for Crawford's Athletic teams during the 1966-67 school year. Creative and imaginative, the pepsters worked hard to invent original songs and cheers. Their exuberance boosted the morale of both team members and spectators.

At football games, the Songleaders promoted friendship with other schools.

The girls often led cheers at the mike during rallies.

Promoted Pep and Rallies

Spirit overflowed from the pep 'tainer as Chris Kindt, head songleader, and John Loyd, head cheerleader, ignited a spark of excitement throughout the Colt student body. Though the game was long and the crowd unruly, these peppy Crawfordites maintained their vivacity and supported their school unfailingly. Their familiar faces brightened every corner of the campus and their efforts were a vital element in the success of the Crawford school year.

The Song and Cheerleaders always jumped on the bench to lead the kick-off.

Bob Petretta was recognized by Stir-Ups for his talent and proficiency on the football field. Besides his many achievements as first-string halfback, 5'8" 170 lb. Bob functioned as place kicker, punt receiver and co-captain of Crawford's hardworking football team. As an outstanding running back, he gained 1048 yards and averaged 5 yards per carry. Bob, a three-year letterman, caught 20 passes for 316 yards and made 15 touchdowns. His fine performance was admired and appreciated by all Colts.

The Benchwarmers enthusiastically ran to the benches during the half-time at football games.

Benchwarmers Added Enthusiasm To All Games

An enthusiastic group was added to the Crawford ranks this year when Benchwarmers were organized. For the first time, 35 spirited senior girls kept the benches warm during the halftime period of home football games. The peppy fillies represented the lively spirit of all students and helped to boost the morale of the team members.

At basketball games, the Benchwarmers cheered and generated spirit during the half.

Bob Petretta Was Lauded Ability and John Loyd and Recognized for Pep

Mr. and Miss Pep for 1966 were John Loyd, seated on the Colt and spurring it to victory, and Trish Harris, leading the Colt. Their attendants were, left to right: Donna Buss and Tony Alfano, Sophomores; Rick Morse and Sharon Gale, Seniors; and Steve Epstein and Andee Press, Juniors.

Spirited Colts chose their peppiest representatives during the week of Homecoming. John Loyd was elected Mr. Pep and Trish Harris became Miss Pep as Stir-ups held balloting in the Quad on Wednesday. John, as Head Cheerleader and Trish, the Commissioner of Rallies and Assemblies, exemplified the enthusiasm of Crawfordites for their school. They were chosen for their attempts to promote a fighting spirit throughout the large student body. Senior Attendants were Sharon Gale and Rick Morse. Junior Attendants were Andee Press and Steve Epstein. Sophomore attendants were Donna Buss and Tony Alfano.

Spirited and Crawfordites Homecoming

Crawford mums, sold by Girls' League, were worn by all coeds during Homecoming Week to promote spirit and enthusiasm.

Excitement illuminated the faces of Crawford students as they eagerly participated in the many activities of Homecoming Week. Girls' League sold mums to enthusiastic fillies, and football fans viewed a lunch-time film of the 1966 football highlights. Senior girls displayed their athletic "talent" as they battled during lunch playing football in the Annual Powder Puff Derby. The thrill of this special week was intensified when the choices for the 1966 Homecoming Court were revealed at Donut Dunk 'em. Loyal Colts from years past returned for the memorable Alumni Rally on Thursday. The day of Homecoming found Crawfordites working tirelessly on floats in the Aztec Bowl parking lot. Tense faces were splattered with paint before weary club members put the finishing touches on their creations.

Spirited Colts breakfasted together at Donut Dunk 'Em.

Fillies demonstrated their football skill in the Powder Puff game.

Mr. Reid showed his Homecoming spirit by covering his room with banners.

Enthusiastic Attended Many Activities

Stir-Ups fashioned a smiling Snoopy on their first prize float.

Girls' League built a six-foot Lucy out of wood, wire, and paper flowers.

The Junior Class showed a couple on their way to the Junior Ball.

Key Club and Auroras painted the banners which preceded their floats.

Early in the morning the San Diego State parking lot was packed with cars, workers, float frames, chicken wire, and tissue flowers.

The Latin Club presented a colorful entourage with the theme "Happiness Is Being Caesar."

Y-Teens from all three grades carried the banner which preceded their float, "Happiness Is a Home-Coming."

Thirteen Floats Crawford's First

Donna Hashiguchi, Commissioner of Student Affairs and responsible for all Homecoming events, was ecstatic as the parade proceeded.

The Girls' League float, "Happiness Is Being a Girl," depicted Lucy in a bikini on a surfboard.

Seniors portrayed a beaming Charlie Brown in "Happiness Is Being a Senior," with two Snoopy's as underclassmen.

Snoopy flew after the Red Baron in the Electronics Club float, "Happiness Is Not Being Caught Behind Enemy Lines."

The Pep Car was covered with enthusiastic song and cheerleaders.

Participated In Annual Caravan

Homecoming 1966 was an event filled with a spirit of nostalgia and the excitement of a new tradition: Crawford's first annual Caravan of Floats. The pre-game festivities were the high point of a long week of planning and hard work. Besides the excellent presentation by the Pacerettes, spectators viewed colorful and original floats, the beautiful homecoming court, the AFS students, and the chairman of Homecoming Week, Donna Hashiguchi. The spirited song and cheerleaders led the parade, and members of many organizations proudly carried creative floats based on the "Happiness is . . ." theme. Spectators and participants alike found this first annual Caravan of Floats a rewarding and thrilling experience to be long remembered.

Carried by spirited Benchwarmers, the Stir-Ups float, "Happiness Is a Touchdown," won the grand prize.

The Pacerettes performed in the parade with their usual enthusiasm and precision.

The lovely 1966 Homecoming Court was presented at half-time.

Benchwarmers ecstatically accepted the first place trophy for the Stir-Ups float.

Queen Cindy Was Crowned During an Exciting Half-time

Cindy Garrison burst into happy tears when she learned that she was Homecoming Queen.

Homecoming Night 1966 reached its peak during the magic moments of half-time. The Marching Band and Pacerettes again presented an entertaining show. Suspense broke as Donna Hashiguchi and Caravan of Floats Chairman Andee Press presented the Perpetual Trophy to the happy-faced members of Stir-ups for their "Happiness is a Touchdown" float. The eager faces of the crowd pressed forward in anticipation as the Homecoming Court was introduced. While Queen Cindy Garrison tearfully accepted a bouquet of roses, the surging body of Crawford students broke loose in wild excitement. Although the team suffered a disappointing defeat in the second half, students still displayed their enthusiasm at the concluding event of Homecoming Night, a memorable after-game dance in the Crawford gym.

Last year's queen, Candy Groves, crowned her successor.

Students Had Outstanding

Students and faculty enjoyed superior entertainment as they attended winter cultural events at Crawford. The faces of Crawfordites exhibited intense concentration as they watched the All-School Play "Alas, Babylon." The suspenseful drama produced by the Play Production Class achieved great success and met with the enthusiastic approval of all Colts. Bernie Meyer displayed creative talent as he portrayed the leading role of an easy-going bachelor who assumes leadership in a time of crisis. The excellent performances of Stacy Mann and Ellen Newman also added to the ominous mood in the eerie tale of a future atomic war. The talent of actors and producers assisted by special effects, helped the audience to catch the mood and message of the play.

The music groups joyously heralded the holiday season at the Christmas Choral Assembly directed by Mrs. Archibeque. The Jazz Concert was a popular activity as Crawfordites listened to the spirited numbers of the instrumental groups under the direction of Mr. Robinette.

Faces of students and faculty radiated delight at the theater-in-the-round production of "Stardust." A "first" at Crawford, the amusing play featured the complications which develop when a beautiful Broadway actress guest stars at a zany drama school. The audience enthusiastically reacted to the talented performances of cast members Shannon Mow, Bernie Meyer, Ellen Newman and Chris Bailey.

Faces of the Crawford Student Body were enchanted by the exotic paradise created at the Tenth Annual A.S.B. Ball, "Shangri-La." Led by Chairmen Donna Hashiguchi and Tim McClure, the commissioners and Student Affairs Committee worked for many months to insure the success of this memorable event. Couples danced to the music of the "Classics" as they visited a land of lasting youth and eternal peace. The formal dance honored the A.S.B. Council in an atmosphere of Oriental splendor. Held on February 3 at the Community Concourse, the magic moments of "Shangri-La" cast a spell on those who attended.

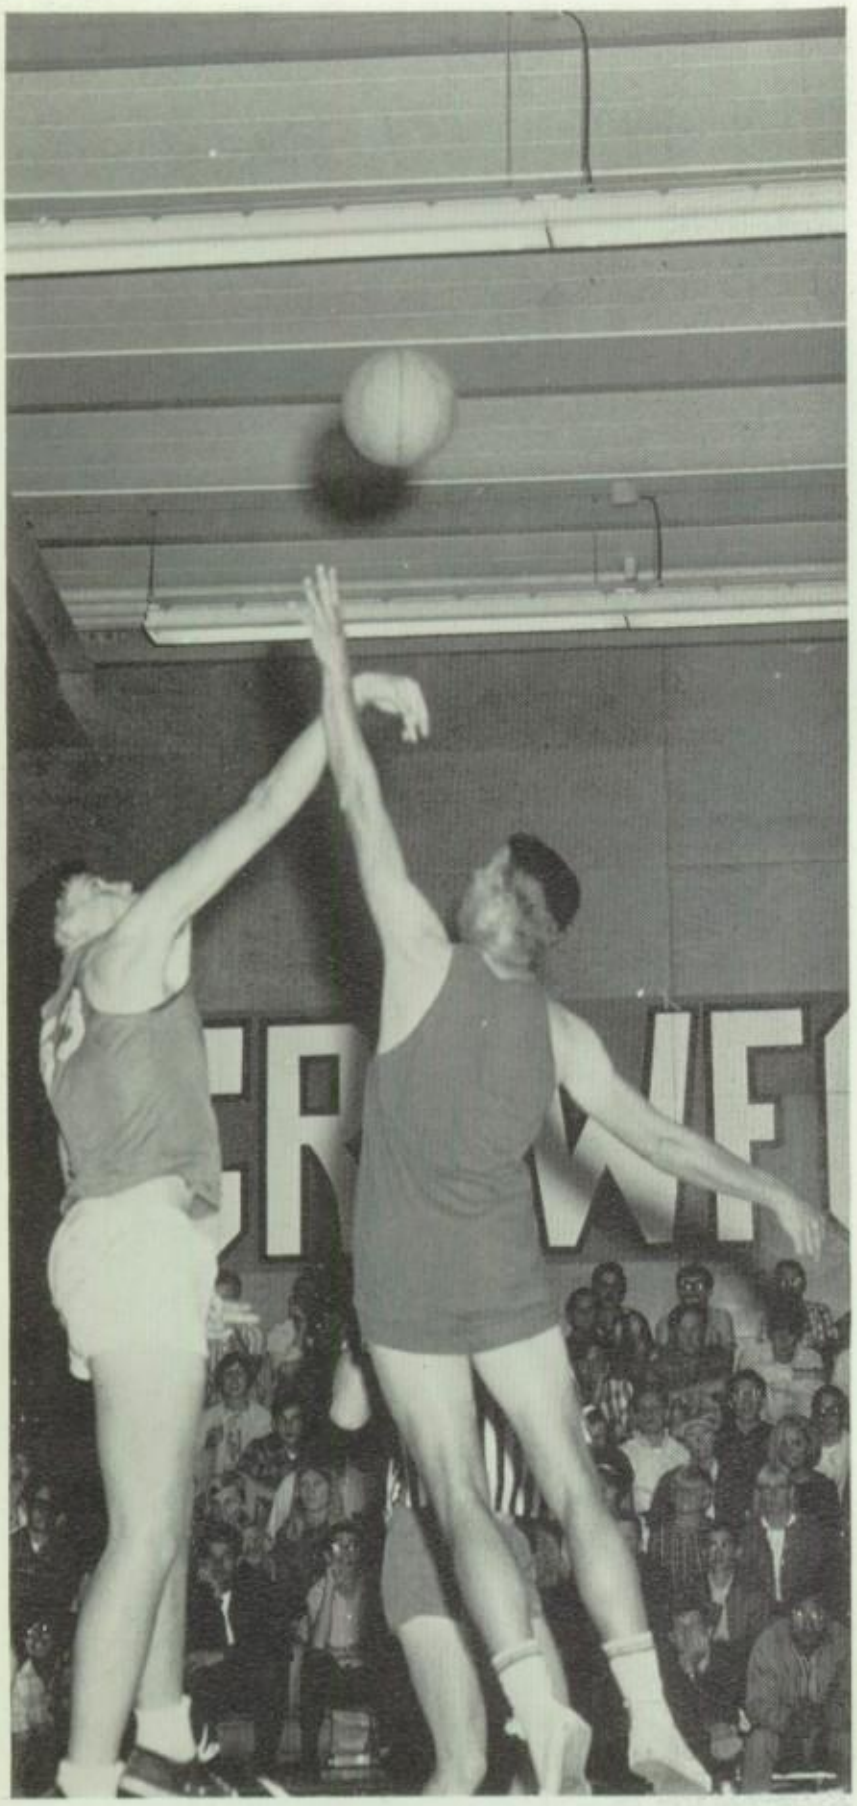
February and Exciting Events



Coach Sams outjumped a student in the Student Faculty Game.

The Faculty worked the ball down the floor.

Enthusiasm illuminated Colt faces as students found February and March filled with many exciting activities. Crawford co-eds treated their dads to a special date when the Girls' League sponsored their traditional Dad n' Daughter Banquet. Held in the Crawford cafeteria on February 15th, the "King and I" was an event highlighted by fun and entertainment.

Colts flocked to the gym to admire the skill of participants in the annual Student-Faculty Basketball Game. Demonstrating their athletic prowess, teachers defeated the students during all three lunch periods.

A dad and daughter dance contest was one of the highlights.

Dads and daughters supped together in a merry atmosphere at "The King and I."

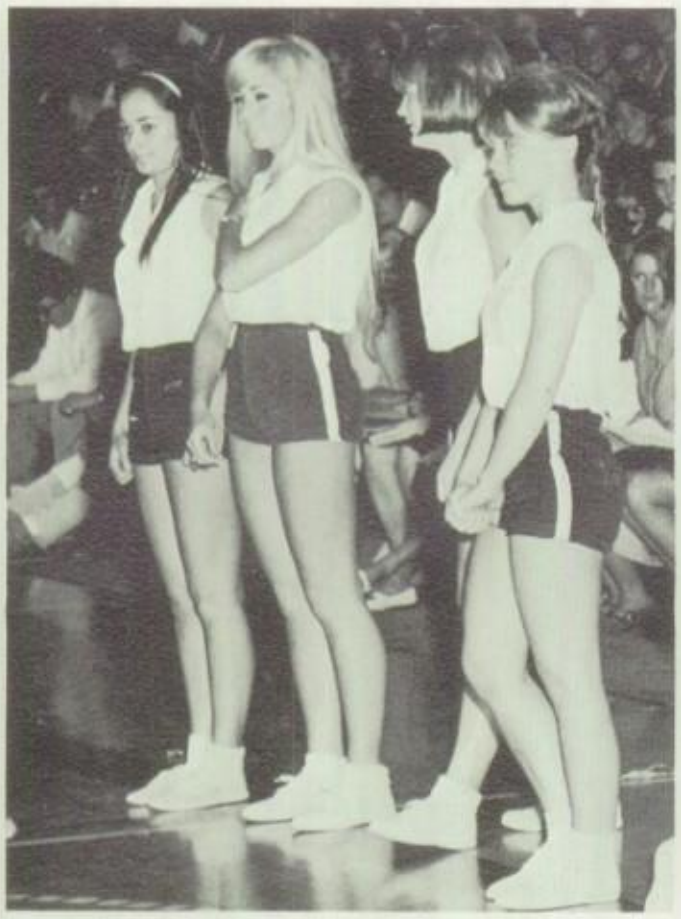
March Brought to Crawfordites

Creative, critical thinking spurred Crawford students to enter projects in the school science fair. March 1-3 found the Crawford gym overflowing with a variety of science oriented exhibits. Colt faces reflected serious interest as they studied the displays constructed by fellow students.

Spring sports were formally ushered in at a rally on March 17. Crawfordites listened intently as team captains reported on the progress of athletic groups. Led by peppy song and cheerleaders, Colts placed their full support behind dedicated players.

Demonstrating a desire to perpetuate school spirit, Sophomores and Juniors entered competition for next year's song and cheerleaders. March 31 climaxed weeks of training as Colts voted for next year's pepsters.

Future scientists participated in the Science Fair.



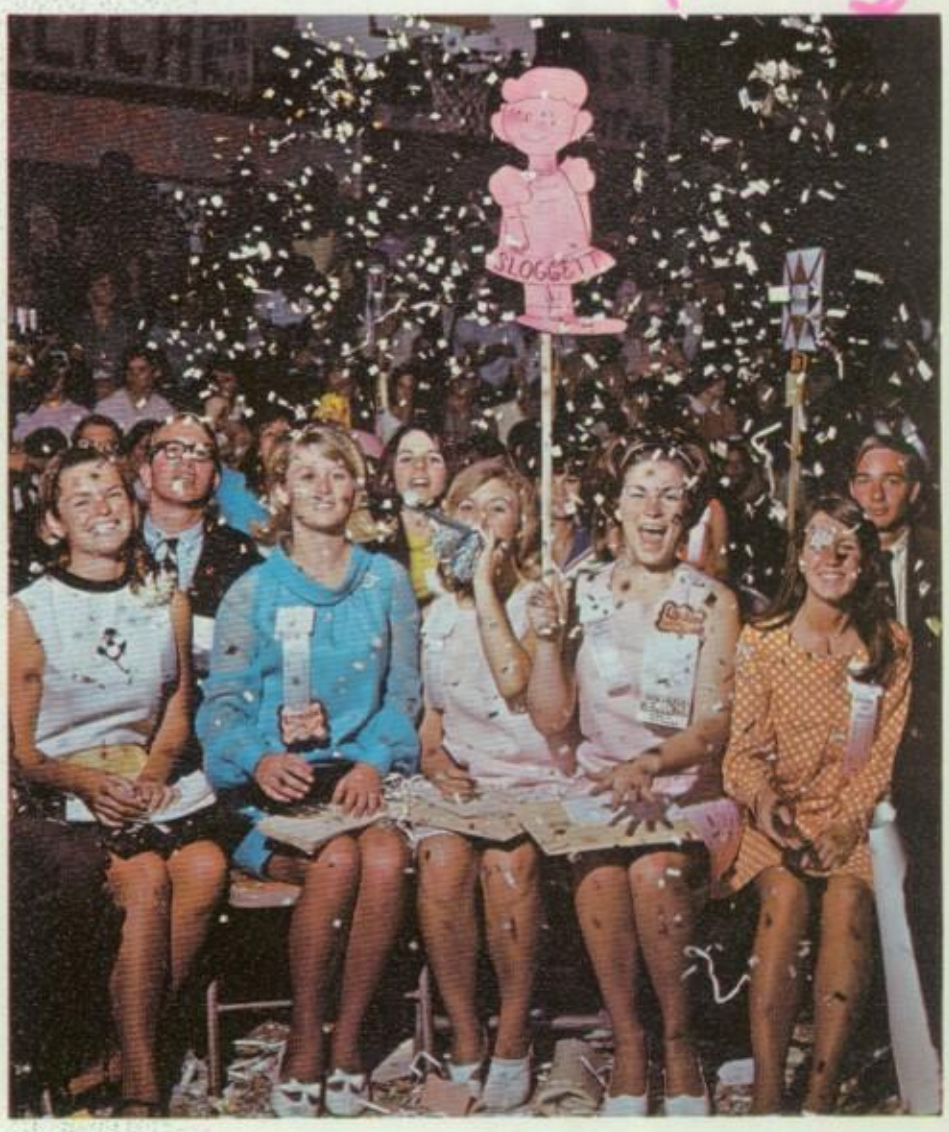
Nervous Cheerleader candidates waited to try out.

The death of the Colt resulted when Crawfordites didn't cheer.

Crawford's outstanding Golf, Swimming, Track, Tennis, and Baseball teams were introduced at the Spring Sports rally.

Vote tallying in the late afternoon was one of the most exciting parts of the convention.

Confetti flying through the air was a high spot of the convention.



Each time a candidate was put on the final ballot, bedlam broke loose.

During a late afternoon recess, the Convention floor was littered and deserted.

Senator Clair Burgener was the keynote speaker.

Democracy Was Practiced at The Nominating Convention

Excitement animated the faces of Crawford students at the Eleventh Annual Nominating Convention. Steve Bieri, Commissioner of Elections, called the convention to order on April 27, 1967 amid the murmuring crowd of Colt politicians. The able assistance of the A.S.B. Elections Committee made the annual event an efficient and smooth-running example of democracy in action. Clair Burgener, as keynote speaker, offered his advice to Crawford students. Colts chose their final candidates for A.S.B. offices in the midst of waving banners and flying confetti. The lively spirit of campaigning proved to be contagious as delegates and lobbyists energetically engaged in caucases and balloting.

Classes attended the exciting Convention through the day.

Steve Bieri, Convention chairman, received the votes.

The decorations took hours of careful work.

A boutonniere was pinned on the most spirited Colt, Mr. Parry.

Crawfordites officially greeted Spring at the annual Girls' League sponsored dance, April a la Mode. "April Showers" was the theme of this year's traditional girl-ask-boy affair. Held on April 21 in the Crawford gym, the dance owed its success to the efficient planning of Chairman Candy Mann and her hardworking committee members. Crawford coeds made their appearance at the dance in their prettiest dressy cottons. The fragrance of corsages and boutonnieres sold at the door enhanced the romantic atmosphere created by colorful decorations. Adorned with gay Japanese umbrellas, the gym was transformed into an appropriate atmosphere to usher in the new season. Unique couple cards and favors complimented the theme of the spring event. Crawford fillies and their snagged dates danced to the music of the Innocents from eight to eleven o'clock. Between dances, couples enjoyed the refreshments served in the dance room. The annual dance proved to be a popular and memorable activity for the many Crawford students who attended.

Andee Press, a decorations chairman, worked after school.

Honored For Service While Boys' Fed. Senior Athletes

Enthusiastic Donna Hashiguchi was awarded the title of Coed of the Year by Crawford girls. Donna served Crawford unceasingly while maintaining a busy academic schedule. Among the numerous positions which she held were Sophomore Class Secretary, Rings Chairman, Girls' League Secretary, Senior Awards Chairman, and Commissioner of Student Affairs. Graduating ninth in the class, Donna's brains, organizational ability and personality earned for her the coveted award.

Eight outstanding coeds were honored by Girls' League for their service and contributions to Crawford student life. Connie Juel, Commissioner of Finance, was chosen for October. Pat de Groot, active in Girls' League and ASB Committee work, was chosen for November. December's girl, Donna Hashiguchi, served as Commissioner of Student Affairs. Karen Glenney, Centaur Editor, and Judy Duffield, Girls' League Vice President, were January and February coeds. Christa Peterson, Centaur Copy Editor and Orientation Chairman, was March coed. Alin Hanson, Girls' League President, and Shannon Mow, Auroras President, were chosen for April and May.

The Athletes of the Month were honored by Boys' Federation for their ability in a sport. Bob Petretta, three-year football and baseball letterman, was chosen for October. Dave Warren, who led the gymnastics team to their 5th straight CIF victory, was Novmber's Athlete. December's Athlete was Chuck Marshall, track and cross country man, who set five CIF cross country records. Chuck Beauparlant, one of Crawford's able basketball men, and Ron Floyd, an excellent wrestler, were chosen for January and February. March's Athlete was All CIF baseball player and two-year varsity quarterback, Frank Alfano. April's Athlete, a strong baseball man and very outstanding in football, was Tim McClure. JOE KAPS

Crawford's chapter of the American Field Service aided students in learning to work together toward international understanding and friendship. The Club achieved this goal through many stimulating activities. The group worked hard on an Americans Abroad Social, a homecoming float and the annual "Pie Night" in November. The bright faces of exchange students Micky Kapoor and Joe Kaps illuminated the Crawford campus as a result of sponsorship by the A.F.S. Stephanie Ferguson carried Crawford good will to New Zealand and returned to discuss her many experiences with club members. The club engaged in several money-making activities to provide Americans Abroad scholarships. Included in their projects was the highly successful Friendship Bond Sale held in March.

The American Field Service sponsored foreign exchange students from India and Austria.

Each member received a pin and membership card to this nation-wide honor society.

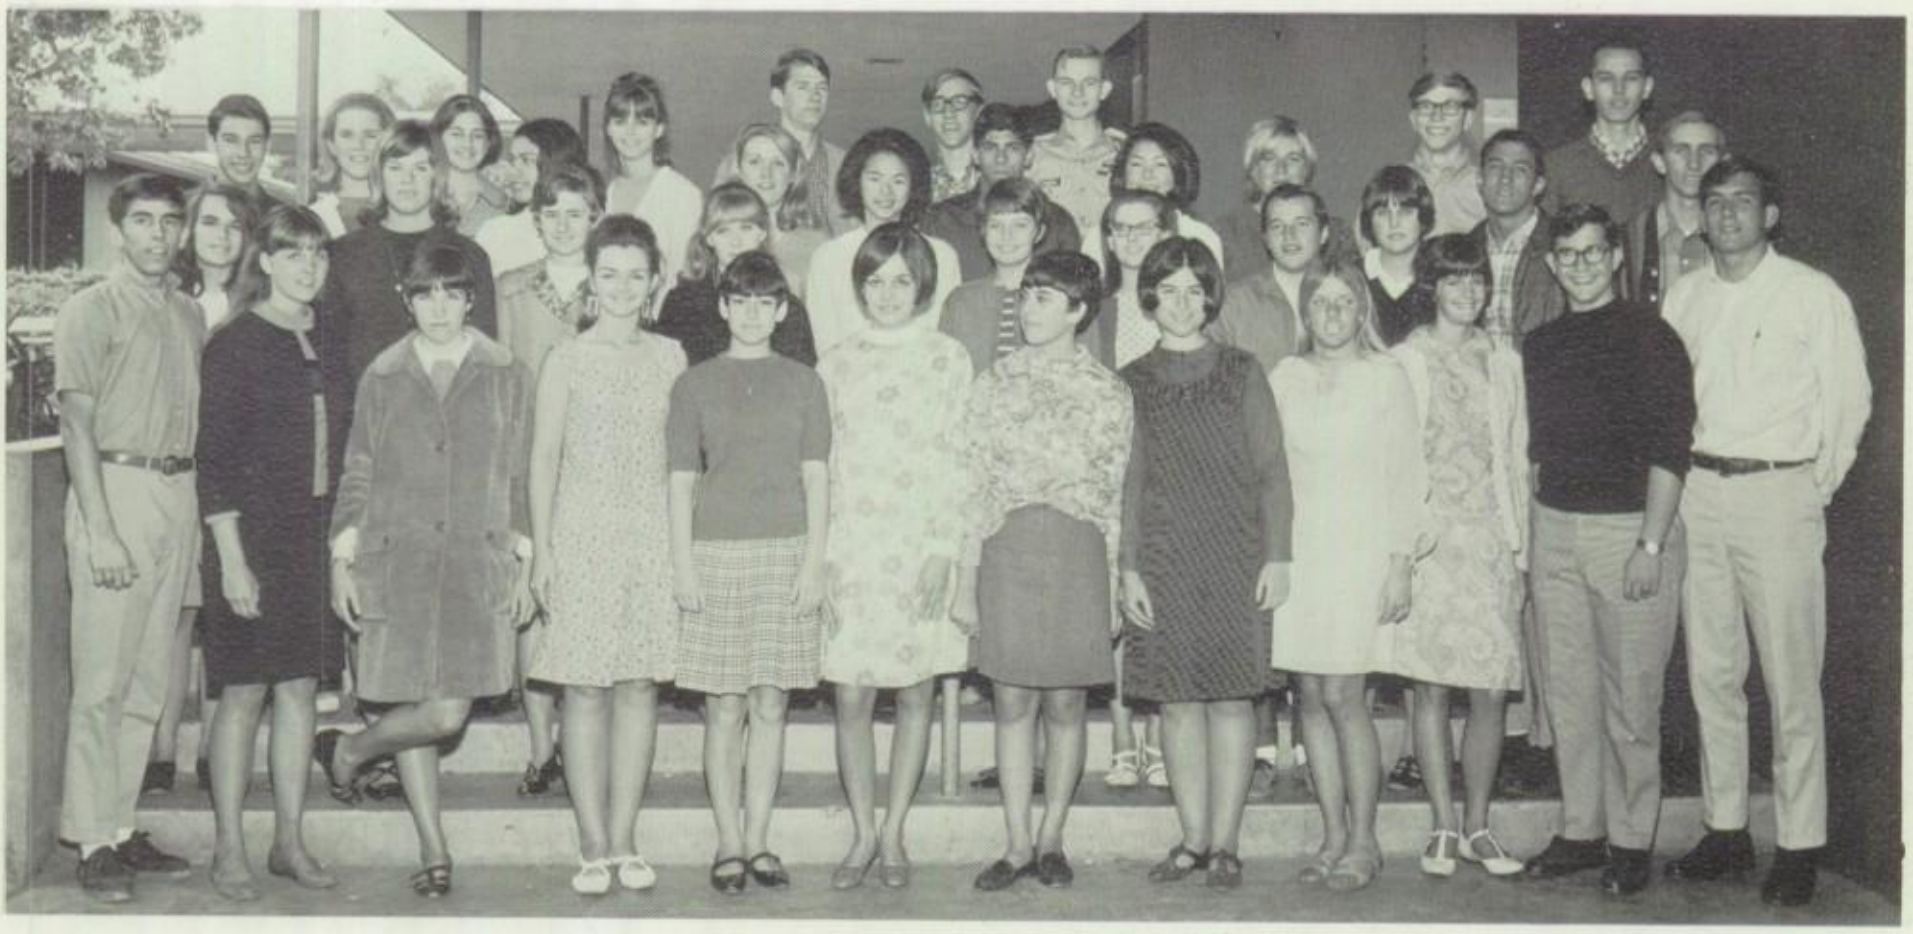
Quill and Scroll Encouraged Achievement

Quill and Scroll was a campus organization which honored outstanding students in the field of journalism. Recommendations by faculty members made Crawfordites eligible to participate in the honorary club. The Crawford group was a local chapter affiliated with the National Quill and Scroll Journalism Society. Comprised of approximately thirty students, the group sought various outlets for their literary abilities. Doug Nason, a senior, headed the group as president, and Mr. Reiker served as club advisor this year.



Members were honored for their high achievements in literary fields.

Alumni attended a dessert party held in their honor.

The happy faces of willing Auroras were devoted to service on and off campus. Under the supervision of President Shannon Mow, Mrs. Brownell and Mrs. Geiger, the girls also sought to promote friendliness and high standards at Crawford. The thirty-one active members of this honorary service club spent many hours aiding the students, the faculty and the entire community. Club members were usherettes at the all-school play, and helped on pre-registration and report card days. Besides holding a city-wide spring convention, the group sponsored $50 book scholarships for deserving seniors.

A farewell breakfast was held for Merrie Klapp.

It was a privilege and an honor to be an Aurora.

Key Club Helped with Projects

Service to the school and community was reflected on the faces of Crawford's Key Club. The organization sought to build youth leaders from its forty-five enthusiastic members. With the help of John Dorman, president, and Mr. Dickinson, the club sponsored worthwhile projects during the school year. Besides supervising weekly bike checks at elementary schools during the spring semester, the group served at the Dad and Daughter Banquet and sold candy during the Christmas season. The Key Club demonstrated its school spirit when it helped to co-sponsor the theater-in-the-round production of "Stardust."

Key Club members were a select group of young men formed under the Kiwanis Club.

Members of the club worked closely while achieving business and secretarial experience.

Girls Offered Their Time

Senior girls enrolled in first and second year shorthand were eligible to participate in the Senior Secretaries Club. The goals of this group included the promotion of valuable experience and high business standards in the secretarial field. As one of Crawford's active clubs, the Senior Secretaries sponsored many sales throughout the year. Activities were planned by Judy Johanningmeier, the group's president and their advisor, Mrs. Johnston. The club operated a gift wrapping service in December and held an Alumni Dinner for past Senior Secretaries. Their voluntary clerical and typing services were appreciated by the faculty and the students alike.

Senior Secretaries provided both clerical and typing services for faculty and students.

Student representatives aided the Red Cross in helping others.

Students Showed Concern

Crawford's Red Cross Council sought to develop better human relationships through world-wide service. Working hard, President Olivia Reynolds and Mrs. Hensley planned the many activities of the service club. The group cooperated with the San Diego County Chapter of the Red Cross in discovering the needs of and stimulating service to the community and nation. After a successful November Enrollment Drive, a serviceman's family was adopted by the council during the Christmas season. February brought a service project aimed at helping the Vietnamese. Cultural chests were also prepared for exchange students by the dedicated and unselfish group.

A fund-raising cupcake sale was held in February.

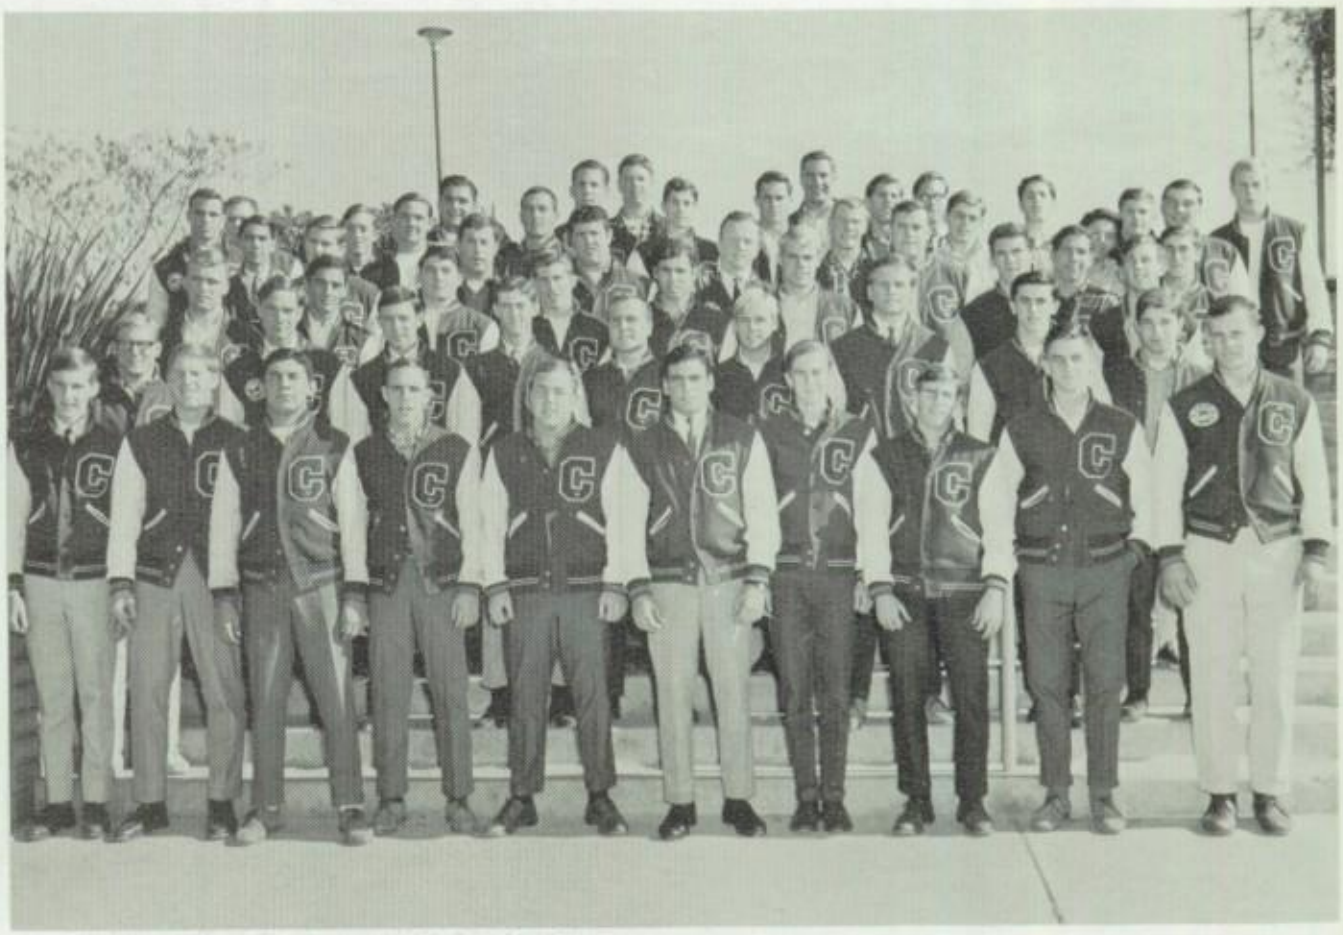
Boys Excelled in Sports

Boys who earned varsity letters in any sport were eligible to participate in Crawford's Lettermen's Club. Tim McClure was elected president of the Colt athletic group and hardworking Coach Sams served as the organization's advisor. This year's club proved to be the biggest in Crawford's history, boasting 120 enthusiastic members. The mighty lettermen sought to encourage and coordinate athletic events at Crawford. Promoting worthwhile activities involving all lettermen, the club sponsored such events as the annual student-faculty basketball game. Through the efforts of the Lettermen's Club, changes were recommended for the improvement of the Crawford athletic program.



The Lettermen upheld Crawford's fine record of sportsmanship.

Club Studied Health Fields

The Health Careers Club led projects beneficial to themselves and others.

Students aspiring to enter a health profession found this year's Health Careers Club an interesting and profitable experience. The group investigated various health areas and went on many field trips in preparation for their vocational goal. The club members participated in the Health Careers Club General Assembly in November, and attended the Health Fair in April. They served both the community and the school with several projects relating to health. One of the group's most appreciated services was their Christmas project. The club supplied white gifts to Edgemoor County Hospital. Their many hours of study and service amounted to a most worthwhile and successful year.

Service Groups were Active

With the loss of many student aides this year, Crawford's Typing Service was doubly appreciated for their service to the faculty and staff. Students were selected carefully for this class on the basis of their typing ability, character and school record. The dedicated group met daily to perform various typing, mimeographing and duplicating jobs. Mrs. Powell led the group as they prepared test and thermofaxing materials for classroom use.

The faces of the Stage Crew were found behind the scenes of all performances held in the Crawford auditorium. The skilled crew manipulated equipment for guest speakers and music assemblies, as well as operating the projector for movies. The excellent handling of lighting, curtain, props and special effects for school plays was the product of the Stage Crew's long hours of school service.

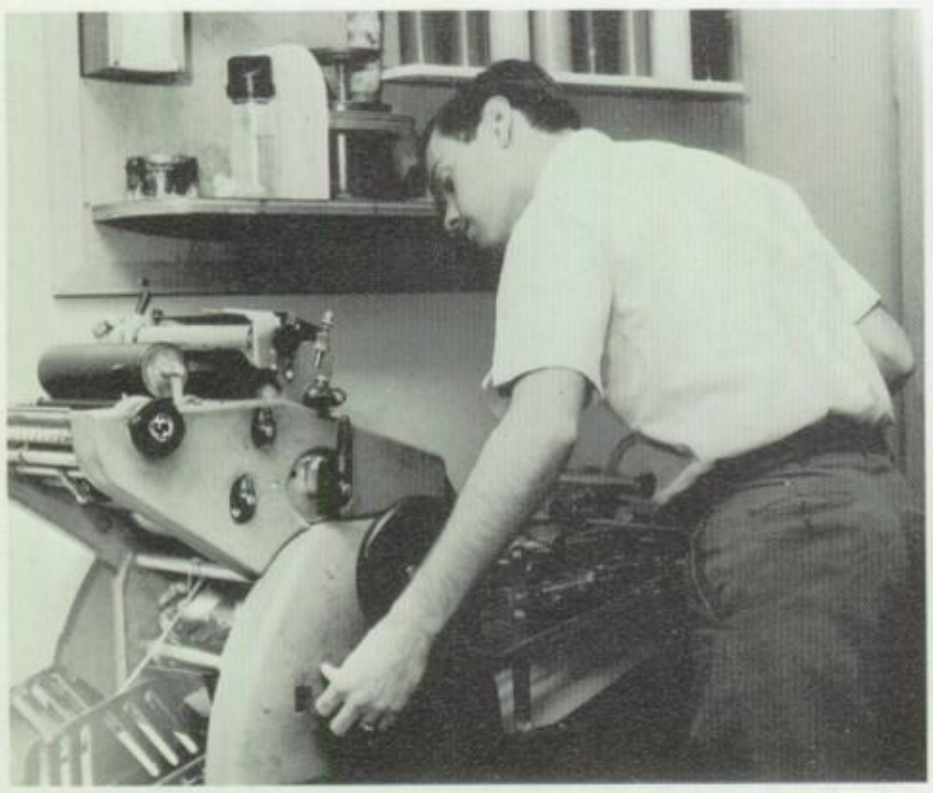
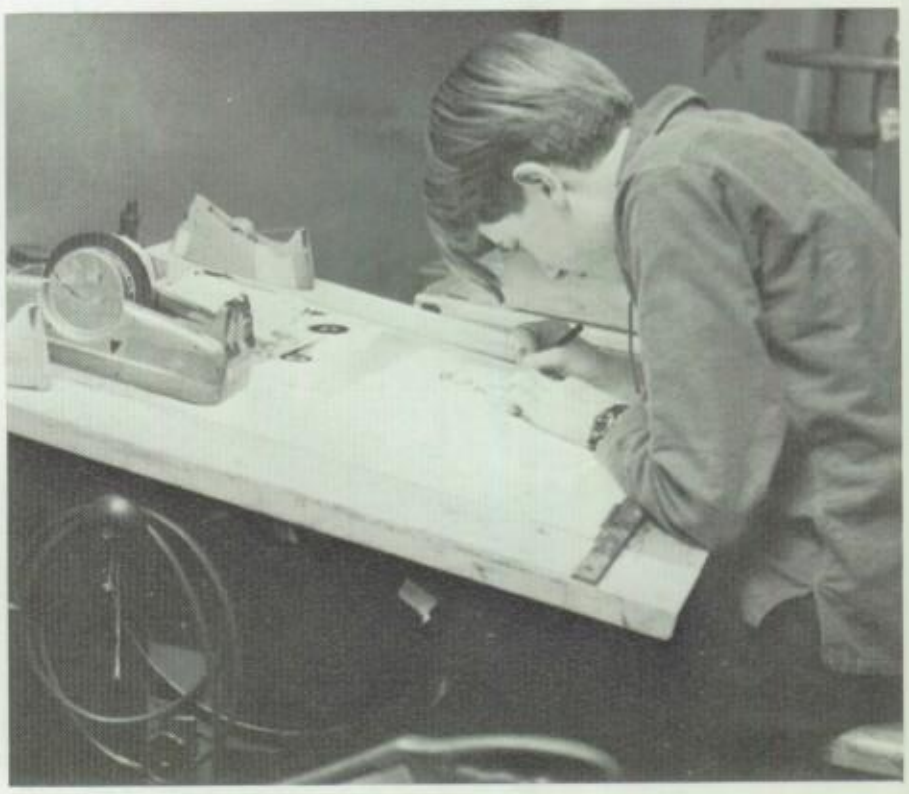
The Electronics Club provided opportunities for interested Crawford students to practice and increase their skills in the field of electronics. The organization benefited the entire student body as it functioned under the capable leadership of President Bill Clapp and Mr. Bob Deason. The club enthusiastically sponsored many activities and willingly offered their technical services at numerous school functions. The excellent handling of sound equipment at football games and lunch-time rallies can be attributed to the talent and hard work of this dedicated group. The efficiency of the club members in their field of interest helped to unite the immense sea of Colt faces at Crawford activities during the school year.



Offset-printing was one of the many techniques earned.



Hours were spent after school printing material for campus activities, including dance bids and football programs.

Technical Skills

The Electronics Club proved a great asset at many school functions.

Graphic Enterprises completed another successful year as an active and valuable school organization. The club held work sessions weekly to develop their skills in many fields of graphic arts. The experience of their advisor, Mr. Francis Linderman, and the leadership of their president, Mike Abbott, made the club one of the most efficient and hardworking groups on campus. Their activities included the planning and printing of football programs, posters, office forms, tickets and dance bids. Talent and creativity were illustrated in all the projects of this spirited club. Aiding many other campus organizations, their hours of work proved to be an appreciated service.

Senior Y-teens encouraged personal growth and friendship while functioning as an active student organization. President Chyrl Norte worked hard to coordinate the many social activities and service projects that the girls sponsored. The exuberant faces of the club members greeted each other at the Seminole Y.W.C.A. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month. A highlight in the club's schedule of events was their annual Christmas dance, "Mistletoe and Bells." The girls also enjoyed a pancake breakfast in November. Money-making projects and joints kept the group busy all year. Memories and lasting friendships were gained from the club's active program.

Girls Shared Their Time

Sophomore girls united in the common goal of sharing friendship as they organized Sophomore Y-teens. Connie Cannon led the group through an enthusiastic program of activities during the school year. Affiliated with the Y.W.C.A., the club met twice monthly to plan both fun and service projects. They held a campus shoe-shine in December and headed for the beach on a bike ride in January. The group's highly successful trip to Disneyland in April was a climax to the year's events. The close associations between the girls was a vital part of their sophomore year.

Any interested sophomore girl was eligible to join this enthusiastic group.

The New Folk Sang Out

The New Folk group consisted of singers, banjo pickers, and guitar enthusiasts.

The Crawford New Folk Club led another successful year as an active student organization. The efforts of the club reflected the growing interest in folk music throughout the student body. The club's goals included the hope of acquainting each member with various folksinging techniques. Each Monday, the group met to further their knowledge and enjoyment of music. The climax of their efforts was illustrated in the annual all-school hootenanny. The "hoot" promoted school-wide enthusiasm for the products of the folksingers' many hours of practice.

The trees and quiet places gave a calm atmosphere to melodies and the blues.

Bowlers Participated in Enthusiastic Competition

Crawford bowlers stayed physically fit while enjoying their favorite sport.

The spirit of competition was high as Crawford students took advantage of the opportunity to enjoy their favorite sport. The Bowling Club completed another successful year under the leadership of President Paul Burchell and Advisors Mr. Hunt, Mr. Reid and Mr. Morgan. The familiar faces of the club members were seen frequently as they met each Wednesday at University Lanes to pursue their entertaining hobby. The group attempted to foster the spirit of fellowship and improve their knowledge of bowling. The bowlers enjoyed good times and and gained valuable experience through their participation in this enthusiastic organization.

Thespians Improved Acting

The performing arts were enthusiastically supported at Crawford by the Thespians. The active club attempted to promote high standards in the fields of acting while presenting dramatic activities for the enjoyment of all Crawfordites. Jon McGuffin was chosen as president of the hard-working group and planned the organization's activities for the school year. Mr. Van Buskirk, as the club's advisor, offered his experienced counsel to the aspiring actors. The dedicated group met every Thursday in the auditorium to prepare for performances during the lunch periods. Club members spent many hours gaining a valuable knowledge and appreciation of drama.

Thespians gained valuable experience in public speaking.

German Culture Was Studied

The German Club became an active Crawford organization this year. Jim Isaak and Mr. McAnear led the group as they pursued the study and enjoyment of German Culture. The club boasted 53 active members and sponsored many events and money-making projects. Club members worked hard in the fall to produce an original and creative Homecoming Float. Their successful cupcake sale in January boosted club funds. The group enjoyed the German atmosphere on frequent visits to Little Bavaria. The faces of club members were often seen at regular soccer games on Wednesdays and Thursdays. The club met twice a month on Thursdays to plan activities related to German customs. Supplementing the study of the German language, the club stimulated enthusiasm in their field of interest.

German clubbers maintained an enthusiastic membership all year.

Clubs Inspired Cultural Interest

Latin customs were studied.

Twenty-five Colts joined La Ronda, Crawford's Spanish Club, to broaden their understanding of the Spanish language and culture. With the help of Mrs. Burrows and Mr. Newall, President Christine Hersey planned many exciting activities for the group. Club members gathered in December for their annual Christmas Party and sponsored a field trip to San Luis Rey in April.

Sodalitas Latina attracted 65 Crawfordites interested in Roman life. Club members, led by the Senatus, worked many hours on their Homecoming float, "Happiness Is Being Caesar." The Latin Club also enjoyed a Saternalia party in December, presented skits at the S.D.S.C. Foreign Language Field Day, and held a Latin Banquet in June.

Choral Groups a Great Array of Musical

Mrs. Archibeque directed each group with enthusiasm.

The Girls' Chorus performed throughout the county.

Crawford singing groups performed the dual function of developing member's voices and providing enjoyment for Crawford listeners. Under the talented guiding and directing of Mrs. Archibeque, the Madrigal Ensemble performed at many school assemblies, including the Winter Holiday Concert. The superior talent of the hardworking group was displayed when they represented Southern California at the Music Educators National Convention in March. The Girls' Ensemble served the community and school. Consisting of 19 members, the group sang at church dinners and school festivals.

The goals of the Concert Choir included voice training and the instruction in music theory. Boasting 95 members, this choral group performed at the Christmas Concert in December, the Pops Concert in February and the Spring Concert in May. Members of the Girls' Chorus sought to develop and train their voices for the future. The active group participated in the April Choral Festival and the Thanksgiving program presented during the lunch periods.

The Concert Choir appeared at several school functions.

Displayed Talent

The Madrigal Ensemble was Crawford's top choral group.

The Girls' Ensemble received superior ratings.

The many peppy faces of Crawford's Stir-Up Club boosted school spirit for the year's athletic events. The enthusiastic members were led by the club's spirited president, Kathy Skiles. The faces of active Stir-Ups were seen amid the pompons of the traditional "C" at Colt football games. The organization also formed a new and successful spirit group this year, the Benchwarmers. Working hard to promote pep during Homecoming Week, the club sponsored the annual Powder Puff Bowl and sold helium balloons at the game. They displayed their willingness to support Crawford with their prize-winning Homecoming float, "Happiness is a touchdown!"

Girls Participated in Athletic Activities

The Girls' Athletic Association welcomed all girls interested in sports.

Classes in modern dance and gymnastics were held after school in the gym.

The trampoline and uneven bars were popular equipment in constant use.

The faces of girls interested in various sports were seen after school participating in the Girls' Athletic Association. Led by Judy Jones, president, and Miss Hitt, the G.A.A. gave Crawford girls a chance to participate in physical activities and meet others interested in the same athletic pursuits. The organization participated in many citywide play-days and meets during the year. The Modern Dance Club was formed by the G.A.A. to teach dance techniques to interested Crawford girls.

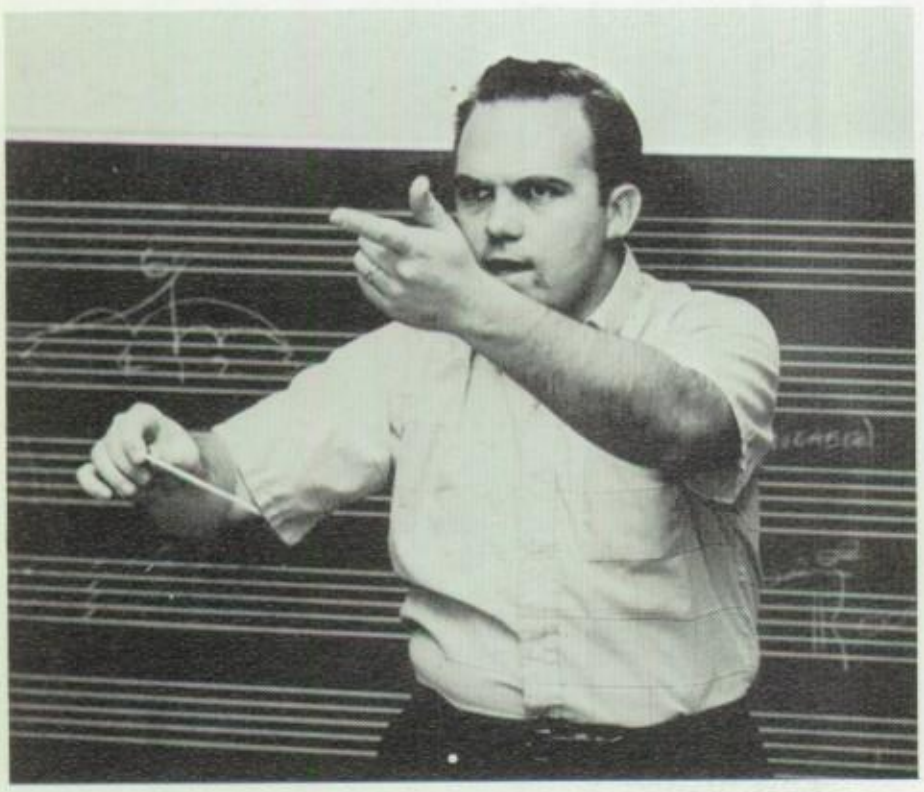
The Concert Band consisted of members from all the instrumental groups.

The Symphonic Band promoted Crawford's spirit in the city-wide festivals and competition.



Each group was directed by energetic Mr. Richard Robinette. .

Industrious music groups practiced diligently to display superior Colt talent. The dedication of Mr. Robinette boosted the enthusiasm and spirit of the aspiring musicians. As advisor to the band and orchestra groups, he spent many hours selecting and conducting enjoyable numbers. The fifty members of the Concert Band united to perform for many school activities. Rated as one of the top four bands in San Diego, the Crawford group received straight superior ratings at the district festival. The Symphony orchestra met after school as an active club. Both groups participated in the popular Spring and Winter Concerts.

Music Groups Were Proud of Their Many Performances

Musical talent of Crawfordites was also displayed in the String Orchestra and the Stage Band. Meeting as a regular class, the String Orchestra was organized under President Jane Saare. Sixteen dedicated members worked for many months to perfect their musical abilities. The group played appropriate numbers for the enjoyment of Colts at the Christmas Concert in December and at the Spring Concert in May. The Stage Band sought to improve their skill at playing good jazz in competition. The faces of band members were seen frequently as they gathered after school as a club to prepare for their many performances. The spirited organization consisted of nineteen enthusiastic students from the orchestra and the advanced and intermediate bands. They played at jazz concerts in December and February and were featured at the Pops Concert. The group also participated in the Southwestern College Stage Band Festival, which was held on March 18. Both the Stage Band and the String Orchestra provided opportunities for year long study in specific fields of instrumental music and boosted student interest in this vital area.

Members of the String Orchestra perfected their skills and gained valuable musical knowledge from Mr. Robinette.

Prior to their appearance at concerts, the Stage Band spent many hours in practice.

Crawford's Performed

Strains of stirring marches blended with the vivid colors of whirling uniforms as the Marching Colts Band and Pacerettes wrote C.H.S. proudly across the field. The dynamic faces of the musicians and drill team were familiar sights during football half-time shows and parades. Band members combined musical talent with many hours of marching practice to produce a superior performing group.

Marching Units During Half-time

Presenting many pompon and flag routines, the Pacerettes were colorful representatives of the Crawford student body. All seventy-five faces of this hardworking group of girls reflected school loyalty and a willingness to provide enjoyment for fellow students. Although not an easy task, both performing groups united their efforts to form a surging body of spirit and enthusiasm.

Crawford R.O.T.C. groups enthusiastically participated and excelled in competitive activities. The Fancy Drill Team was admired as they provided entertainment at parades and at Open House. The ability of this outstanding group was also displayed when they supplied the Honor Guard for the homecoming queens in November. The R.O.T.C. Color Guard volunteered their services for all official functions of the school. They presented the colors at sports events, P.T.A. meetings, and at the A.S.B. Nominating Convention. The Rifle Team, consisting of the best marksmen in the corps, competed with other R.O.T.C. units in the county. The efforts of the Drum and Bugle Corps, as well as the Drill Team and Color Guard, were demonstrated when these talented groups represented Crawford at the annual R.O.T.C. Field Day in March.

Fierce Desire Was Typical

The faces of Crawford's 1966 football team reflected a hardworking and determined spirit. Under the fine coaching of Walt Harvey, the team excelled in defensive play. With 17 returning lettermen, the team had high hopes for a successful season. The skill and talent of all the team members were displayed as the Colt squad downed Sweetwater 19-0 and crushed Madison 10-6 in the season's openers. The struggle with top-seeded Point Loma resulted in only a temporary setback; the Colt gridders again shone as they trounced San Diego 41-20. Long runs and spectacular passes made the San Diego game a highlight of the 1966 season. The team was stunned as they lost the battle for first place with traditional rival Hoover High. Although Crawford led 14-12 with six minutes left to play, the Cardinals managed to break through the Colt defense to score an upset victory 24-14. The season ended with disappointing losses to Morse 7-0, Saint Augustine 13-0, and Lincoln 7-0. Although the faces of the team members did not always radiate victory, the squad maintained enthusiasm and drive, anticipating a more successful season next year.

J.V. Displayed Great Ability

Crawford's Junior Varsity team showed promise for a bright football future as they completed a successful '66 season. The J.V. gridders took second place in the Eastern League, boasting an excellent 8-1-0 overall record. Both offensive and defensive units were well-developed; the gridders gathered 248 points and only surrendered 42 points to opposing teams. Under the guidance of Coaches Sandback and Draz, the efforts of the team enhanced school spirit on the Crawford campus.

J.V. Squad Won Often

J.V. harriers worked hard to build a future for Crawford's cross country team. Coach Malcolm aided the determined group as they trained many hours for the rigorous season. The excellent J.V. runners placed Crawford in close competition for Eastern League honors. Their tireless efforts were exhibited when they finished the season with a fine record of six wins and two losses. Outstanding times were achieved by future prospects Oscar Andrade (10:58), Gordon Smith (11:18), and Dave Buehner (11:20). Anticipation of a successful future was also reflected on the faces of Gene Krieser, Dave Strachan, Bruce Drescher, and Mark Malkiewicz.

Gymnasts Captured Title for Fifth

The faces of the Colt gymnastics team beamed with pride as they completed another perfect season. Beginning in September with a team victory in the First Annual W. Duncan Waterman Memorial Meet, the gymnasts continued to add eight dual meet victories to its record and climaxed the season with wide-margined victories in the Eastern League and San Diego Section C.I.F. finals. Guided by the encouragement of Coach Tooze, dedicated team members finished the year with an impressive slate of eleven wins against no defeats.

Dave Warren, Senior Captain, three year letterman, and two year C.I.F. All-Around Champion, led the well-balanced team as they boosted Crawford's accumulative victory skein to 54 wins in a row. Other standouts included Rex Helton, Cliff Sherrill, Skip Varley, Joe Tice and Larry Herrmann. Continuing a long tradition, the fine squad captured the Eastern League crown for the seventh consecutive year and took their fifth C.I.F. title in five years. Talented returning gymnasts brighten the hopes for many more successful seasons.

Varsity Cagers Showed Talent

The faces of Crawford cagers intensely concentrated on building an experienced team for future victories during this season. Coach Sams capably guided the Varsity Basketball team through a season of hard work and unparalleled effort. Although the Colt team suffered many disappointing setbacks and finished sixth in Eastern League play, they maintained a spirit and drive not indicated by their 6-18 season won-loss record. With Captain Fred Bellinger scoring 30 points, Crawford players united to show their potential strength in a stunning 67-61 victory over eventual C.I.F. Runner-Up Mt. Miguel early in the season. League competition was rough this year, but an aroused Crawford team defeated league leader St. Augustine 55-52 in a thrilling and unforgettable game. Fred Bellinger and Chuck Beauparlant emerged as outstanding Colt basketball players and gained honorable mention in the Eastern League selection. Both Colts amassed impressive individual records besides demonstrating superiority in team action. Bellinger and Beauparlant, as well as Sophomore Rod Boone, were the team's high point men at the close of the exciting season, boasting total scores of 359 points, 204 points, and 197 points, respectively. Despite discouraging losses, the Crawford team was a champion in enthusiasm and perseverance. The defiant spirit of the team sparked hopes for victory and success next year with returning lettermen Rod Boone, Mike Johnson, and John Neun. Experienced players like Mike Meyer and Glenn Skirvin also show promise for the 1968 season.

Working tirelessly to keep in shape for the season, Crawford's track team experienced valuable growth this year. The Colt team was characterized by many outstanding individual performers and all-out group effort. Team members found keen competition in Eastern League meets, and finished the season with a 2-4 win-loss record. The consistent encouragement of Coach Malcolm and the leadership of co-captains Chuck Marshall and Bob Crogan kept the spirit and drive of the squad on a high plane. The team's enthusiasm and will to win was exemplified in their 57-56 victory over Morse High, a high point in the exciting season. The Junior Varsity track team also worked hard, completing the season with 3 wins and 4 losses. Track men Stan Eller, Don Bajema and John Neun excelled in varsity events.

Boasting the best defensive attack in Crawford history, the Colt baseball team was a leader in city competition. With eight returning lettermen, the success of the season was based on the careful playing of the experienced team. Three past league championships on the Crawford record encouraged the Colt squad to work tirelessly throughout the season. All C.I.F. players Frank Alfano and Bob Petretta led the spirited team as co-captains. Coach Bill Sandback demonstrated his well-known ability to produce a contender for C.I.F. honors. Six batters with averages of over .300 aided the team in achieving many hard fought victories. The high quality of the Colt squad was revealed early in the season at the Lions' Tournament. Crawford passed Grossmont, Clairemont, and Point Loma to meet Kearny High in the tourney's finals. Crawford captured top honors with a brilliant 3-0 shutout over the Komets. The pitching of Leo Edge was an important asset to the team in the Lions' Tournament and in league contests. The Colts experienced tough competition in the league, but maintained their superiority with a 10-5 record.

Crawford demonstrated its drive in valiant battles against prime Eastern League foe Saint Augustine. Morse and San Diego also posed threats to the progress of the Colt squad. Rod Boone, Mark Stransky, Jose Gonzalez, Earl Altshuler, and Mike Pieratt will return next year to perpetuate the familiar Crawford drive. Next season will be a building year for the Crawford ball club.

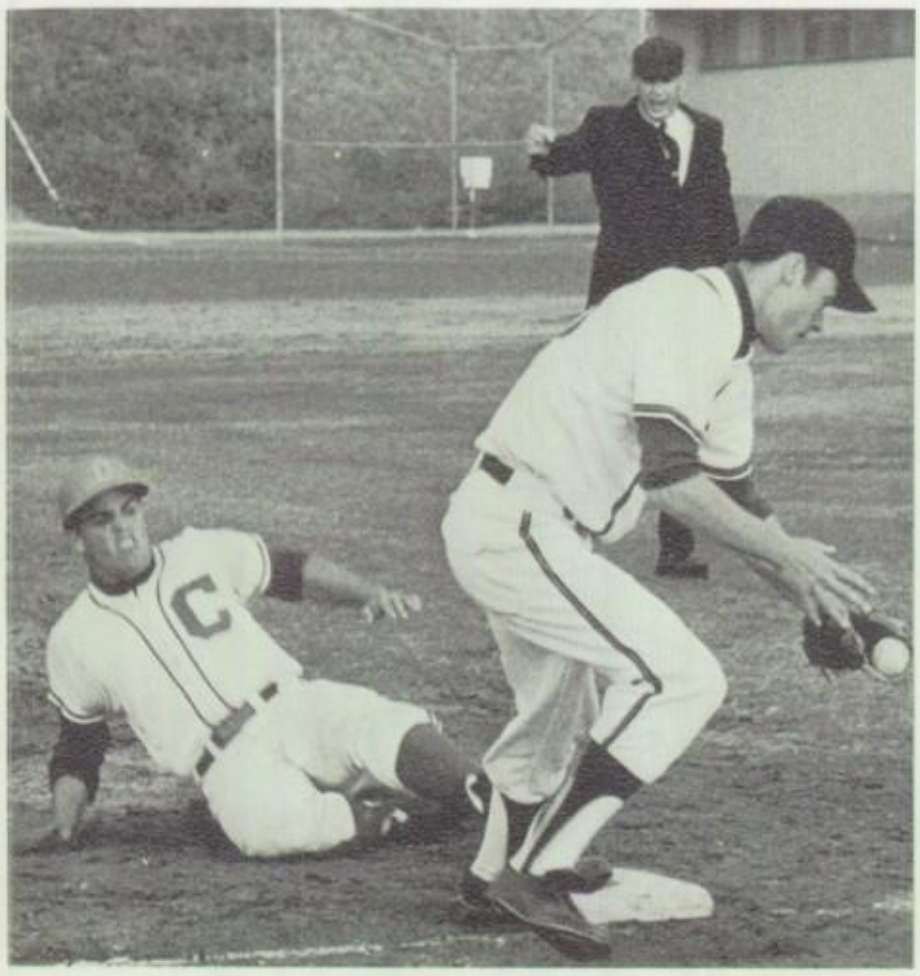
Earl Altshuler handled a hot grounder at third base.

Bob Farrar moved in for the catch.

Catcher Tim McClure provided Crawford with a rugged backstop throughout the long season.

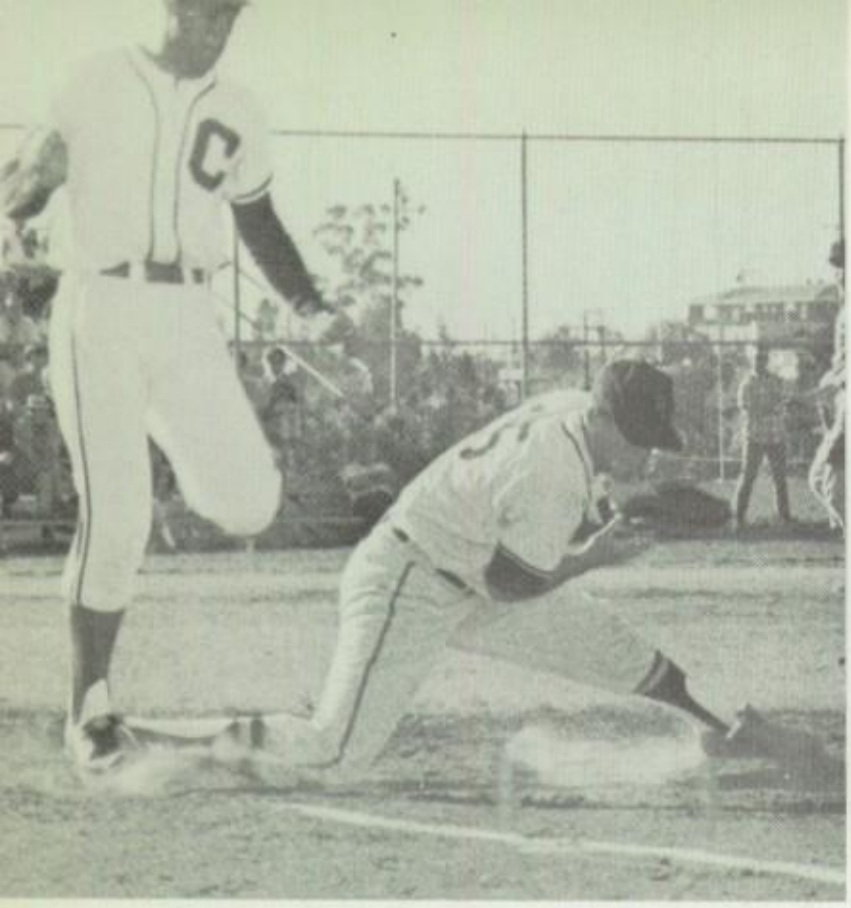
On the mound, Colt hurler Lloyd Dyson followed through after the pitch.

Dan Corgnado attempted to take second.



The umpire ruled Bob Petretta out at third base.

Frank Alfano displayed the batting form which made him a feared hitter.



Greg Kaufman beat the throw for an infield single.

Sliding under the throw, Bob Petretta stole second against Morse.

Colt centerfielder completed catch to retire the side.

Anxiety, concentration and strain were reflected in the faces of the Colt bench.

After leading off, Bob Petretta broke toward second

Enjoying success unparalleled in five seasons, the Junior Varsity baseball team was a champion this year. Excellent pitching, catching, and defense as well as fair hitting carried the squad through many victories. The mental errors characteristic of most junior varsity teams were absent from the Colt squad this year. Crawford's J.V. was entered in the Lion's Tournament, usually reserved only for varsity squads. The strength of the team was evidenced by their outstanding performance. Lanny Howarter pitched a no-hitter against Coronado, winning the contest 1-0. With a 13-2 record in league play, the team boasted many outstanding performers. Lanny Howarter, Bruce Altshuler, Bob Brown, and Randy Flynn were among the standouts.

Tennis Team Earned Co-Title

The faces of tennis team members were seen on Crawford's tennis courts as they diligently trained for a season of crucial matches. Barely missing an undefeated season, the Crawford team demonstrated their outstanding athletic ability and effort during the year. Encouraged by the enthusiastic spirit of Coach Sams, the squad captured top honors in Eastern League Play. Mark Porter, a senior, led the tennis players through the victorious year as captain of the team. Colts Ted Teacher and Dave Whitehead were distinguished as the top singles players in the league. Crawford also boasted a hardworking doubles attack which displayed superiority in league action. With eight returning lettermen next year, the team shows promise for successful future seasons.

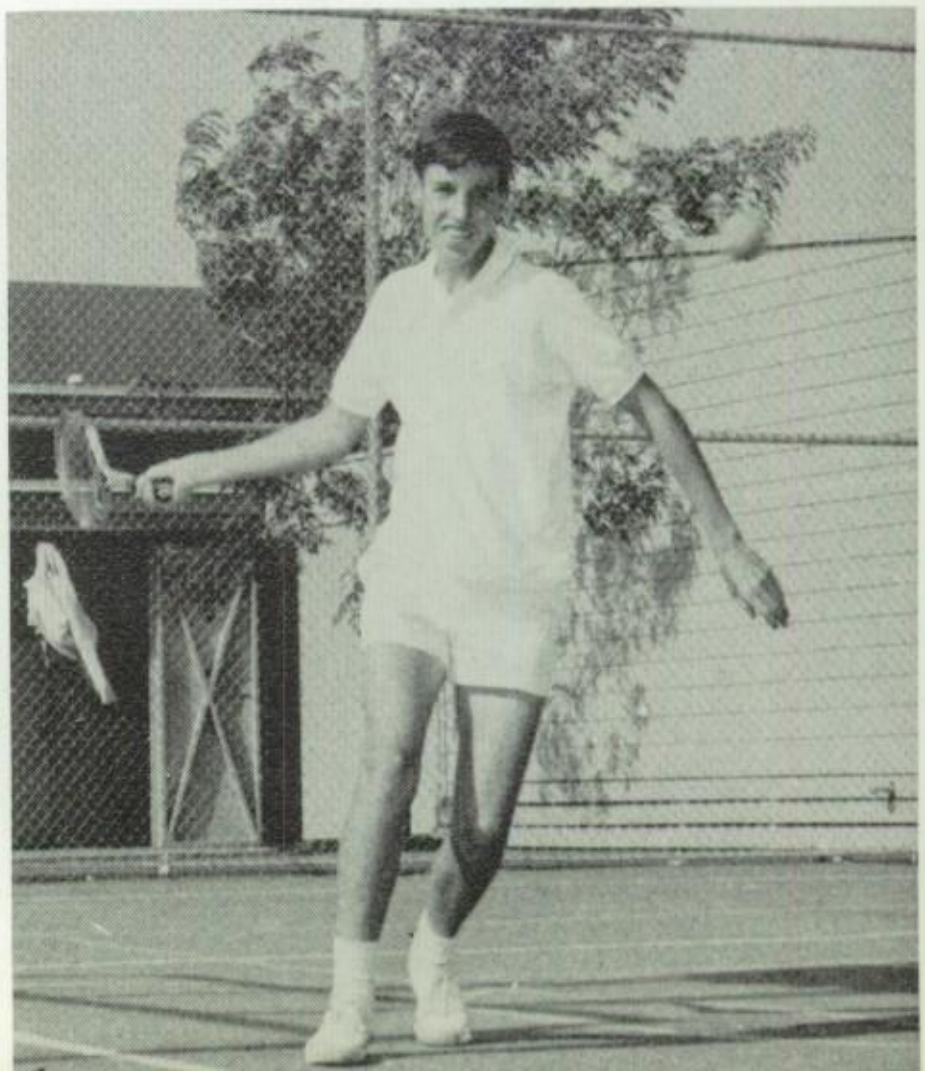
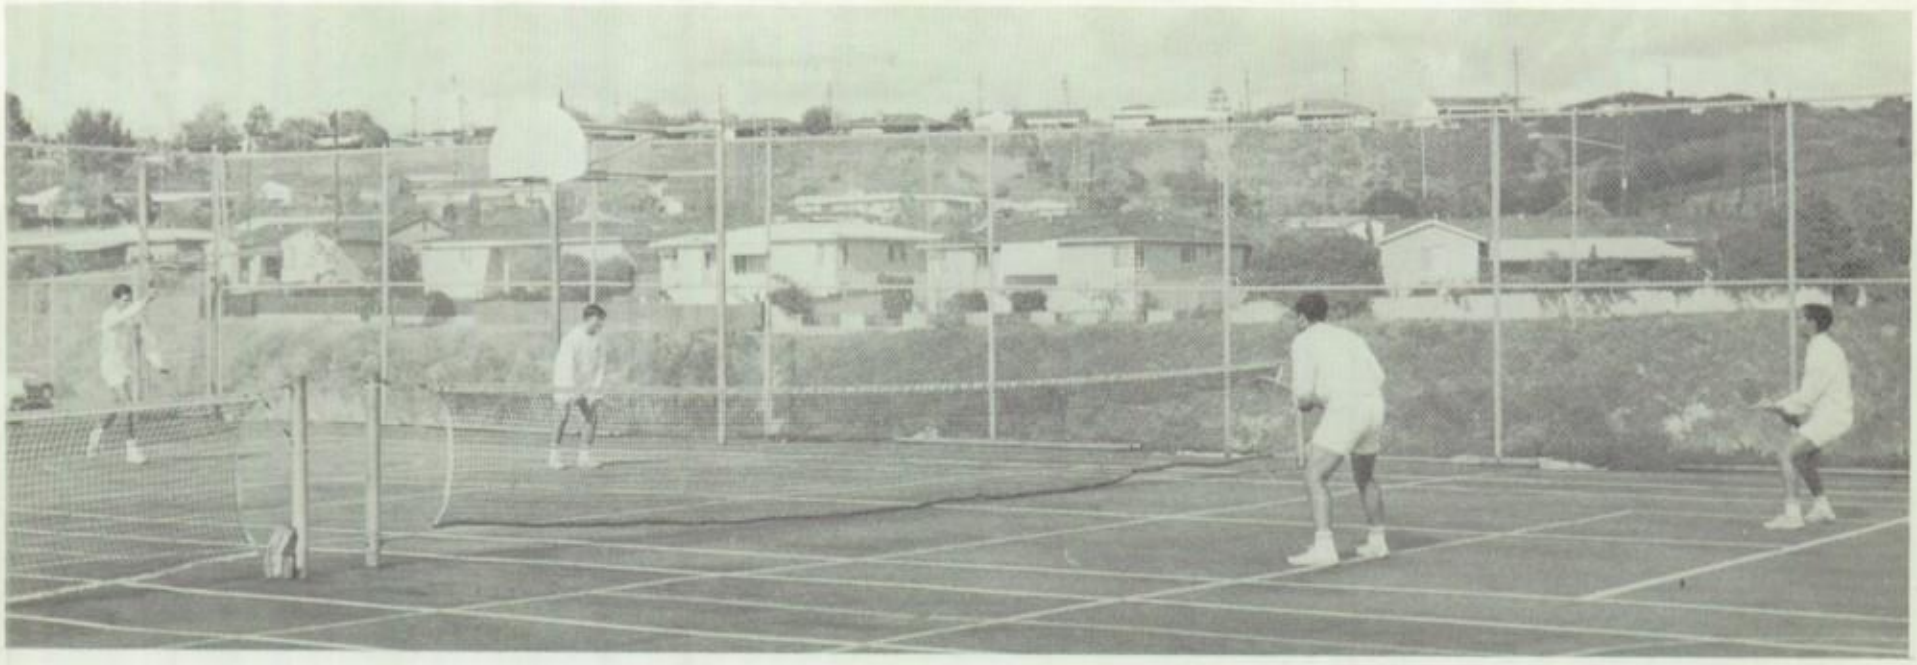
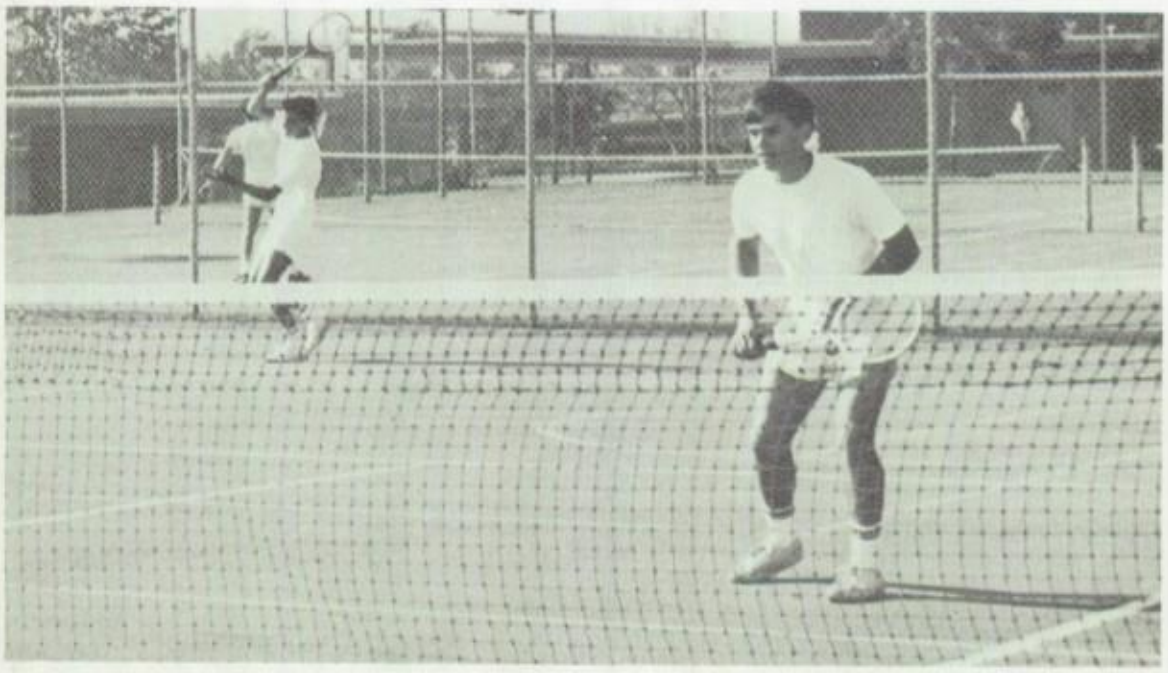
Sophomore Ted Teacher was undefeated throughout the season.

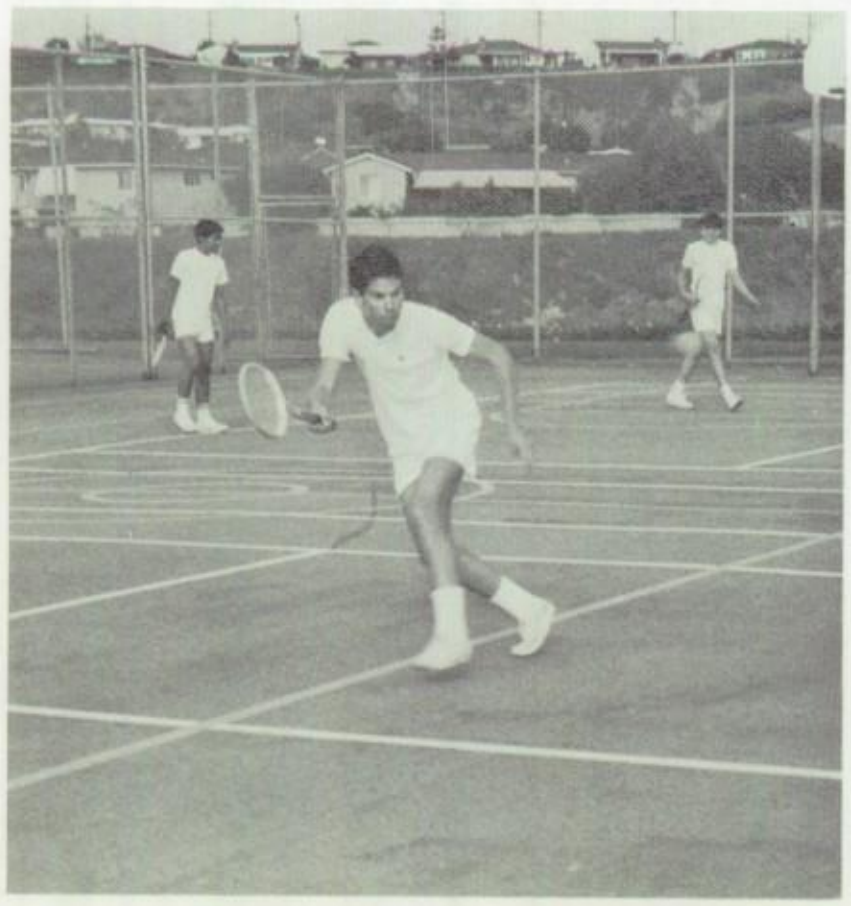




Crawford's two top doubles teams sharpened their skills during practice, an essential part of team success.



Doubles team Charles Mosse, right, and Kent Homnick challenged their opponents.



Marc Kobernick showed skill and determination during his first year on the tennis team.

Gary Pollak displayed excellent serving form.

Colt tankmen perpetuated the high standards of the past Crawford swimmers by capturing the Eastern League crown for the fifth straight year. The team boosted the overall swimming record of the school as well as compiling an outstanding Eastern League record of 4 wins and 0 losses. The dedicated athletes underwent strenuous training in the mornings and afternoons to maintain their powerful position among the top swimming schools in the county. The team demonstrated their strength by achieving a Class A Championship at the National City Relays and a Class A Runner-up at the Vista Relays. The spirit of the team was bolstered by the hard work of Coach Draz. Gordon Darby promoted enthusiasm by serving as the team's captain. Fine swimmers such as John Curtis, Pete Keyser, and Gordon Darby set school records and led the team through a victorious season. Colts will remain tops in swimming as long as team members exert the total effort characteristic of the 1967 season. The strength of Colt swimmers has distinguished them as the legendary "team to beat" in San Diego competition.

Co-Captains

Crawford's golf team exerted a united effort to display a superior performance this season. Coach Robert Liles successfully guided the golfers through many victories. As co-captains, Greg Trompas and Jay Bazik demonstrated outstanding leadership. The Colt golf team used the San Carlos Club as their home course, and played well in the face of keen competition. Led by the talented performance of Greg Trompas, the golfers crushed San Diego High 296 to 309 to clinch the Eastern League Championship. On May 15th, the team captured the San Diego C.I.F. crown with a five-man score of 385.

Highly ranked in city play was Crawford's Jay Bazik.

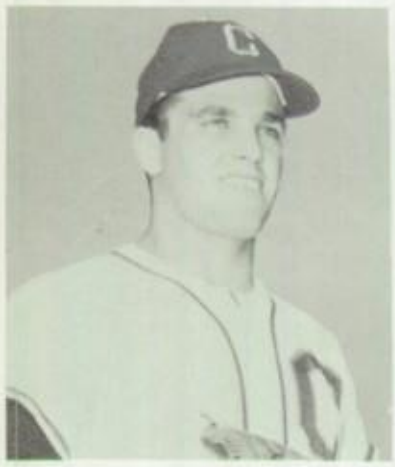
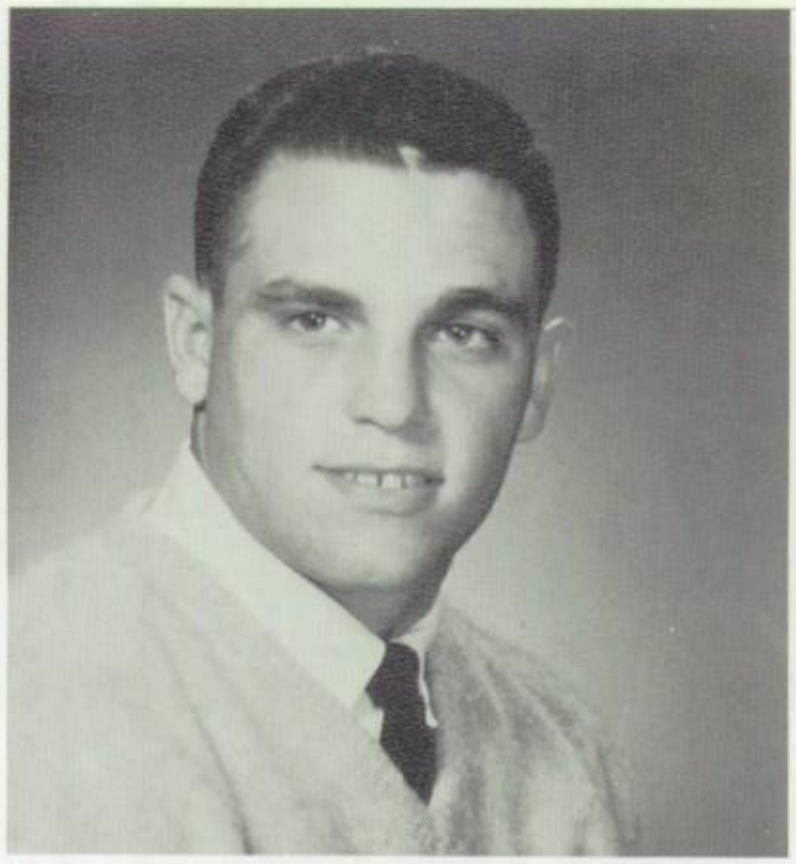
1966-67 Athlete of the Year





ROBERT PETRETTA

Since his junior high years, Bob Petretta has been distinguished for his unmatched athletic abilities. At five feet nine inches tall and weighing 170 lbs., Bob's hard work in baseball and football earned him the coveted title of Crawford's Athlete of the Year. An outstanding football back for three years and an excellent punter, Bob was selected for the All-League football team in his junior year. He was co-captain of the 1967 Colt football squad, as well as a three-year letterman. Bob's good arm and great speed also won him fame as a star member of the baseball team. A co-captain in his junior and senior years, he was also selected for All-League and All-C.I.F. honors.

Intramurals Were Successful

COACH
DICK MEDENWALD

The Crawford intramural program provided an opportunity for boys not participating in interscholastic sports to compete against other boys of comparable athletic ability. Enthusiasm for intramural sports was high, as Crawford boys took part in basketball, track, volleyball and badminton events. Colt handball champions demonstrated their athletic prowess by capturing 1st place singles and doubles crowns in League Extramurals. Crawford's physical fitness team also revealed Colt superiority as they crushed Eastern League rivals and set new records in extramural competition.

Glenn Skirvin, Jim Trent, and Walt Abbey were representative of the entire intramural program at Crawford High School.

Champion Randi Won Crowns

Crawford co-ed Randi Horn has been recognized for her many achievements as a champion diver. Excelling in diving for many years, Randi has perfected her style and performance to an impressive level. A four-time winner in the Junior Olympics, the spirited Colt spends many hours pursuing her favorite sport. A two-time Pacific Southwest A.A.U. Champion, Randi has displayed her talent in all types of competition. She has twice captured the West Coast Maccabiah Championships during her diving career. A participant in the Phoenix Optimist Mid-Winter Meet, Randi walked away with a double victory. Locally, the athletic Crawford student has also been distinguished for her superior demonstration of diving skill. As a five-time winner of the Chula Vista Invitational Senior Women's, Randi is well-known in San Diego contests. Besides being champion of the Coronado Invitational, she has won the La Mesa Senior Open event three times. Randi's fame has broadened to the national level. In the past, she was a fourth place titlist on the one and three meter boards in the U.S. Junior Nationals. Recently, Randi has earned the honor of being a finalist in the U.S. National A.A.U. Senior Women's Championships. Randi's many successes have distinguished her as one of Crawford's most active and ambitious students.

Val Was Nationally Ranked

VALERIE ZIEGENFUSS

Crawford was proud of Valerie Ziegenfuss, nationally known for her exceptional tennis ability. Winner of five national doubles titles, talented Valerie has been playing tennis for eight years, coached by her father. The athletic Crawfordite was ranked number one of 16 year olds in 1965 and number two of 18 year olds in 1966 for the Southern California region. Presently ranked fourteenth of national women tennis players, she plans to continue the challenging and competitive sport. Valerie demonstrated her outstanding skill by defeating Billie Jean Moffitt King 3-6, 7-5, and 6-3 at the 1966 Pacific Southwest Women's Championships. Her biggest thrill was the opportunity to play her favorite game on the center court at Forest Hills. Recently, Valerie has won the Margaret Weckerly Sportsmanship Award sponsored for juniors by the San Diego Tennis Patrons Association. Valerie plans to attend San Diego State College and anticipates a European trip to play Wimbledon in the Spring.

Valerie exhibited her outstanding backhand.

C.S.F. Organized this Year

Many students were rewarded for High Scholastic Achievement with Membership in C.S.F.

KENT HOMNICK
President

The California Scholarship Federation is a statewide society organized to promote scholastic achievement by recognizing proficient and deserving high school scholars. Besides encouraging academic excellence in all subjects, the members of the California Scholarship Federation at Crawford organized into a functioning campus club this year. Crawfordites were eligible to participate in the honorary organization if they earned an A minus scholastic grade average at each semester report card. Members of the group met early in the year and elected enthusiastic Kent Homnick as their president. With the help of Mrs. Leisure and Miss Eaton, hardworking and dedicated sponsors, the organization's officers planned various activities coinciding with the intellectual interests of club members. Crawford's C. S. F. sponsored such worthwhile events as an interesting panel discussion on the nature of college life given by guest speakers from the University of California at San Diego. Setting a new precedent for future years, the faces of Crawford scholars united to give birth to this new and dynamic student organization during the 1966-67 school year.

These Students were grateful for their valuable experience in leadership and government.

Stephanie Returned Home

"G'day — and greetings from all my friends 'Down Under!' " was Stephanie Ferguson's message to Crawfordites. Her lively face was seen again when she returned from a year in New Zealand as an A.F.S.'er. Stephanie found her stay there a priceless experience: "I grew by learning to cope with many aspects of life different from those in my American Community. I arrived home with a definite feeling that I'm no longer a 'Yank' but I'm not quite a 'Kiwi.' I'm one of those types known as a 'Yankiwi.' "

I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for making my hours at school such eventful ones. I assure you that I enjoyed every minute inside and outside the classroom. The spirit of patriotism and the school spirit amongst the students impressed me a great deal. I always found a feeling of unity in spite of the various physical and mental differences.

Inside the classroom, I found the informal relationship between the teacher and pupil encouraging towards better learning. Outside class hours, my involvement in the various clubs and sports took a great deal of my time. What I enjoyed most were the football and basketball games and the after-game dances.

As far as out-of-school activities were concerned, my wonderful family took care of it all. The A.F.S. could not have made a better choice for me. Already I feel that I am going to experience a few sad moments when the time to leave comes.

Once again, I want to say a little "thank you" and I shall miss all of you at Crawford when I must leave.

I have been very busy during my stay in the United States of America and I haven't been homesick once while living in San Diego. I enjoyed life with my family, the Leonards. I was very surprised about Crawford and had many new experiences here.

The most wonderful and helpful thing for me was the privilege of having a family. I appreciated them, especially at first, when nobody understood what I was talking about. It was soothing to know that someone was around to teach me the language and the customs of this country.

Since I can now understand English much better, I like attending school in the United States very much. I feel that American schools are not only a place of learning, but also a place to have fun. I found the enthusiastic students and friendly teachers the most enjoyable part of school life. This type of education was a new, exciting experience for me.

I would like to thank Crawford and its students for making my stay in this country one of the nicest times of my life.

November 22 was the night Seniors gathered to relive the days of flappers and gangsters at the Senior Class Party, Roaring 'Twenties. Old time movies and the gay music of a Roaring 'Twenties band livened the atmosphere of the event held in Crawford gym. Dressed in the outlandish costumes of the bygone era, Seniors enthusiastically participated in a genuine Charleston contest. The upperclassmen returned to the present by dancing to the music of the Innocents.

First Years Captured Spirit

The Class of '67 formed a vigorous and dynamic sea of student faces. Under the leadership of Sophomore Class President Dave Okun and his efficient cabinet, the class sparked enthusiasm and spirit from the moment they entered Crawford. Under the "big top" of the Crawford gym, the sophomores gathered for their class party, "Circus World." The year was also highlighted by the election of J.V. cheerleaders.

Junior Class officers, led by John Dorman, effectively distinguished the Class of '67 as active participants in student body activities as well as class events. As juniors, the class enjoyed the atmosphere of a tropical paradise at their party, "Tahitian Tamure." Members of the class waited with anticipation for the memorable night of the Junior Ball, "Southern Splendor." Class rings and Senior Elections climaxed their junior year.

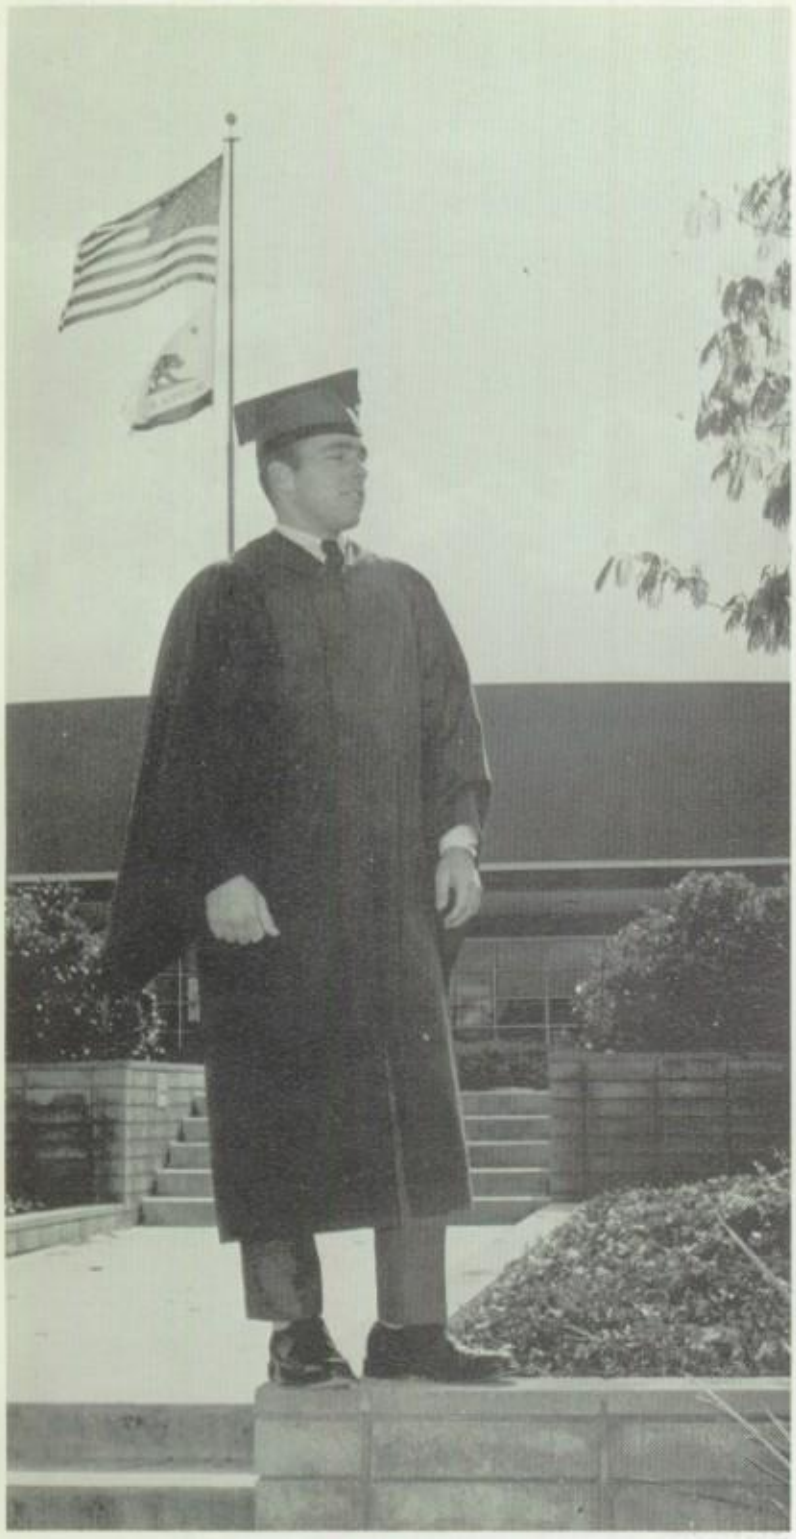
Officers and Sr. Together for a



JETT KEYSER
President

The success of Senior events demonstrated the dedication and efficient leadership of the class officers and council. With Jett Keyser presiding, the council representatives discussed the vital issues of the Class of '67. Jett was aided by the work of Vice-President Bob Petretta, Treasurer Nick Smith and Secretary Linda Embery. Advisor Mr. Merrill McLaughlin spent many hours with the officers planning Senior activities and money-making projects. Coordinating Senior events and insuring class participation was a time-consuming job for the hard-working group. The officers and council were responsible for uniting 1100 Seniors through efficient communication procedures. The mature faces of the dedicated group of students reflected their willingness to serve fellow seniors in the capacity of leadership.

Council Worked Successful Year

MR. MERRILL McLAUGHLIN
Senior Class Advisor

Mr. Merrill McLaughlin guided the class of '67 through three successful years at Crawford.

Enthusiastic participation was shown by the senior class council.

A teacher who can arouse a feeling for one single good action, for one single good poem, accomplishes more than he who fills our memory with rows on rows of natural objects, classified with name and form.

Mr. Parry were Able

A very special thank you to the Senior Class of 1967. We are most appreciative of your cooperative and friendly attitude. When a class gets so large that it cannot meet as a class, yet it still maintains a friendly, warm personality, it requires cooperation from all its members. The eleven hundred and thirty of you completed your high school education with a very successful record. You gave outstanding leadership to the student body by demonstrating to the school how important it was to work together. By applying that same cooperative attitude when you leave here, it will make for a successful and happy life in anything you may choose to pursue.

Congratulations to the Class of '67.

George S. Parry

Mr. Parry's lively spirit was felt throughout the student body.

and Staff Coordinators

Another year can be added to the history of Crawford High School. Another list of graduates — the Class of 1967 — to be added to the growing list of alumni.

As you Seniors leave the security of familiar classrooms, teachers, and friends, it is hoped that you developed the necessary tools for success, and have established goals for yourselves.

Some of you will further your education — others will enter the vast field of employment. Still others of you will continue to explore, and seek to determine where you fit into the pattern of today's world.

To all, whatever goals you seek to achieve, whatever contribution you may make for the betterment of people everywhere, I wish for you success, happiness, and above all a useful life in service to others.

Members of the Crawford High School Class of 1967:

As you complete your senior year and I finish my sophomore year at Crawford, it is my privilege to extend personal hope for your success and happiness in future years. To those who continue their educational pursuits, may you have many opportunities to increase your knowledge and offer worthwhile contributions to your generation. To those who choose the world of work, may you find satisfaction and security in your occupational goals. Your days at Crawford will be remembered for talented student leadership and outstanding academic and scholastic achievements. Congratulations and best wishes!

Suddenly it's here. Seems like only yesterday, doesn't it, that you entered Crawford High School? You couldn't wait, or so you thought, to get it over with and be on your way. Are you suddenly beginning to wonder just what it was that you were looking forward to—just where was it that you were so anxious to go? Does it sort of frighten you? Don't let it. You'll soon realize that you have had wonderful preparation in an outstanding high school by excellent and dedicated teachers. You'll meet the future, whatever it holds, with competence and confidence — just like so many Crawford graduates before you. Be humble, yet eager to improve, and willing to keep on learning. Set your sights and persevere — you'll make it.

MR. CARL MUSTOL

The understanding faces of the class advisors were often a welcome sight to Crawford students. The counselors spent many hours solving scheduling problems in the opening days of school. During the year, they kept busy discussing personal problems and supervising class activities. Advisors took personal interest in the futures of thousands of Crawfordites. Their tireless efforts resulted in a successful and satisfying year for students on the Crawford campus.

Secretaries Worked Tirelessly

Hardworking Crawford secretaries willingly tackled the endless paperwork produced by 3600 students. A continuous flow of questioning Crawfordites sought the reassurance given by the friendly, informative office secretaries.

Campus Employees Perpetuated Efficiency

Custodians Kept Campus Immaculate

Friendly and congenial, the custodians at Crawford worked diligently to keep campus facilities in top condition. Led by Mr. Blackburn, the group spent many hours maintaining the beauty and cleanliness of the Crawford grounds.

Cafeteria Workers Fed Colts

The willing service of Crawford's cafeteria workers aided the efficient functioning of the school Faculty and students enjoyed the nourishing, delicious meals which the dedicated group tirelessly prepared during the school year.

1967 has been a year of change for the CENTAUR. The latest methods in yearbook production have been employed to produce a more casual, yet effective record of the year's activities. Special thanks must be given to the many, people who, in all their infinite patience, helped develop the all-new 1967 CENTAUR:

To the CENTAUR Staff, who put their creative talents into the mechanics of the book,

To Mr. Francis Linderman, advisor, for his invaluable guidance,

To Mr. Phil Binks and Mr. Burt Nestor of Busco-Nestor Photography Studios for their excellent photography and service,

To Mr. Wiley Westerfield and Mr. Jim Neyenesch of Neyenesch Printers, Inc., for the actual production of the CENTAUR,

To the S. K. Smith Company for the magnificent cover work,
To Mrs. Irene Johnston for the management of the finances,
To the administration and faculty for their cooperation and patience,
And to the hundreds of FACES that compose the 1967 CENTAUR.

The staff hopes that it has provided the Associated Student Body of Crawford High School with thousands of memories.

Sincerely,
Karen Glenney
Editor-in-chief

AUTOGRAPHS

Steve~

Well, I sure do feel funny writing in your annual, that is since I dont go to CRAWFORD! I will never forget when I met you, (even though you did) I still say you were DRUNK! You ARE A wonderful person and you mean a lot to me. Dont EVER forget all the fun we've had, at DANCES, SMOKEY and the MIRACLES, the BEACH. And also just being together. Some day maybe we will go to "SAMOA" (thats probably spelled wrong) and live with no money. - I hope that our RELATIONSHIP will grow forever. I'll SEE yA this sommer No doubt AND your NEVER gonna spank me, I don't CARE what you say OR how mad yA get. I'm SORRY I wrote OVER → SORRY!! PLEASE NEVER CHANGE, (I like you CRAZY!) (UNLESS you DONT WANT to BE)

BYE BYE

Love forever and forever

Nancy

P.S. Im very bad at writing things!

Steve,

You are such a sweet heart! Remember Easter week? Why did you have to tickle me until I died? Then at that Classics dance when we cried on each others shoulders! Kind of cheered me up--- hope it did you. Thank you for bringing me home all three times too! See you LOTS during the summer. Good luck in whatever you do!

always—
Marilyn

Howdy Steve!

Steve,
It's been great knowing you. Let's really keep in touch. Have a great summer & interesting & you have a great guy (funny) fraternity. Good luck in all the time & see you all when you come back. I'll miss you. Take care & be good. Best of luck always!
Lots of Love
Vikki

Steve:
It's been so fun knowing you. Let's really keep in touch. Have a great summer & interesting & you have a great guy (funny) fraternity. Good luck in all the time & see you all when you come back. I'll miss you. Take care & be good. Best of luck always!
Lots of Love

Steve -
Hope your life
is filled with
joy. You're a great guy!
Always,
Sue

P.S. No time to write

Steve,
I know that we haven't found a place to write I guess it is something.
Every day we've had the better day we've been in our boring last times but at least we are getting out. I hope to see you in the future
next year.
Tom

Steve -
All the and of another year.
Glad I got to know you this year.
Have been fun knowing you.
Have a great summer. Take care for it real sweetie.
Love ya,
Lori

Steve,
Watch what you do this summer
and take care of yourself.
Best of Luck
